Japan Asks League Council To Place Blame On China

SPOKESMEN FOR NATIONS HOLD DEBATE

Japanese Representative Denies Conquests of China and U. S. Planned KOO UPHOLDS CHINA

Scoffs at Japan's "Peaceful Intentions" and Backs Boycott Plans

GENEVA, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Japan asked the council of the league of nations today to hold China responsible for the conflict in the Far East.

"We have not violated a single treaty," Yonaka Matsuo of Japan declared in resuming debate on the Manchurian dispute.

He challenged Dr. Wellington Koo of China to prove his statements that Japan sponsored the disorganization of China.

Dr. Koo kept his eyes on his papers while Matsuo was speaking. The Japanese denied Koo's charges and said a charge that Japan has a policy of expansion and conquest of China, the United States and the rest of the world is based on forged documents.

"The Chinese are exploiting foreign gullibility with spurious documents," he said.

He pictured Japan as a peace loving nation for 25 centuries. Matsuo warned the council against hasty action.

"You must take very careful consideration and very deep thought in connection with this serious and complicated situation in the Far East," he said.

Matsuo contended that the boycott by the Chinese against Japanese goods is as bad as war if not worse. He recalled that in 1905, when a Chinese boycott was in effect against the United States, Washington characterized it as "a form of coercion designed to force concessions and violation of treaties" and as a "hostile act."

Whereupon, he said, the United States ordered its Pacific fleet held in readiness.

"Could any action be stronger?" he asked.

Koo, in rebuttal, scoffed at Japan's "peaceful intentions."

"What about the islands of Formosa, and Korea, Manchuria, Mongolia and Jehol?" he said. "In whose hands are they?"

If the boycott is warlike, he continued, "what can we term Japan's action in Manchuria?"

Typical Family Loses Typical Car Typically

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 23.—(UP)—A national magazine undertook several years ago to find the typical American family. It selected that of Merrill J. Brown of Indianapolis.

One way in which the Merrill J. Browns were typical Americans was that they owned a typical American automobile. It was a small one.

This week the typical American automobile owned by the typical American family disappeared in typical American fashion. It was stolen.

Upon discovering his loss, Brown did the typical American thing. He called police. "We'll search for it," the police told typical American Brown. They are still searching.

Man Is Shot In Attempt At Holdup

Grapples With Officer and is Wounded; Escapes, Later Captured

MIKE ROANE, 37, alleged burglar, was being treated today in a serious bullet wound in his stomach which he received when he grappled with an officer in Orange last night after he assertedly was caught in the act of robbing the Perkins' Bakery at 152 South Glassel street, Orange.

The story of how Roane was shot and afterwards escaped only to be recaptured later reads like fiction. The alleged burglar was seen entering the bakery shortly before 8 o'clock last night by Mrs. E. B. Adams who lives in a bus remodeled into a house in the rear of the bakery.

Mrs. Adams summoned police after the burglar had torn the screen and kicked a panel out of the wooden door and entered the building. Officer A. H. Westerman of the Orange police department answered the call.

The burglar heard the officer enter and ran by him out of the store. After he did so Westerman grappled with the man and a hand-to-hand fight ensued, during which the alleged thief was shot by the officer's gun. It was learned later at the hospital, where he was taken, that the bullet entered his body through the stomach, glanced off a rib and lodged in his back. The fight took place in the alley just back of the store and was witnessed by Mrs. Adams.

After the fight the burglar escaped and ran down the alley. Officer Westerman fired two shots at him, neither of which took effect.

CORONER REBUKES DEALERS WHO SELL USED CARS THAT ARE DANGEROUS TO DRIVE

Commenting on the testimony given at the inquest at Laguna Beach yesterday afternoon into the death of Andrew (Corley) Hadnash, sailor on the U. S. S. New York who was killed instantly in an automobile accident three miles north of this city, Coroner Earl R. Abbey issued a stinging rebuke to dealers in second-hand cars who sell machines that are not fit to be driven.

The testimony showed that the drive shaft fell from an automobile purchased the same morning by Maury W. Picot, also a sailor on the New York, and with whom Hadnash was riding. Walter W. Mayes, state highway patrolman, testified that when the car passed him one of the brake rods was dragging on the ground.

"I wish there were some way to compel dealers in second-hand cars to give a guarantee that they are in good condition," said Coroner Abbey.

"I wish, too, there were some way to force them to make sure that the purchaser is a qualified driver. In many of the accidents in Orange county in the past year, in which sailors and others have been killed, the cars not only were in poor condition, but the men driving them were inexperienced. This is a serious matter. Two or three sailors will get together on pay day and put up enough money for a down payment on a second-hand car, to use during liberty. Some dealers will sell them any kind of a machine to get the money."

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death after Picot and B. F. Cockrell, a third sailor from the New York, and who also was a passenger, told the story of the accident. Lieutenant Morris M. Rubins, of the medical corps, attached to the naval hospital at San Diego, was an eye witness to the accident. He testified that he had examined the men and that none had been drinking and no liquor was found in the car.

The testimony showed that after the drive shaft fell out that the occupants lost control of the car completely.

The body of Hadnash, who was a boxer in the navy, was taken to San Pedro and will be shipped to his former home at Wheeling, W. Va., where his mother resides.

Baskets To Be Given To City's Poor

Salvation Army Unable to Aid Needy Because of Lack of Funds

THANKSGIVING DAY will be fittingly observed here tomorrow by the Santa Ana churches at a union service at 10 o'clock at the First Christian church, Sixth and Broadway, for which a special program, including impressive musical numbers, has been arranged.

The Rev. E. W. Matz, president of the Santa Ana Ministerial association, will preside over the services, and Dr. George A. Warner, pastor of the First M. E. church, will deliver the sermon, the theme reflects the thoughts of the day.

Assisting in the services will be the Perry E. Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church; Harry E. Owings, pastor of the First Baptist church; O. Scott McFarland, pastor of the First Presbyterian church; and Walter Scott Buchanan, pastor of the First Christian church.

The choir of the Christian church, directed by Frank Pierce, with Mrs. R. S. Briggs at the organ, will take part in the musical part of the program. In addition to several solos by Pierce, two anthems "Hymn of Thanks" by Krimmer, and "Thanks Be To God" by Dickson, will be sung by the choir.

The President's Thanksgiving Proclamation will be read by the Rev. Mr. Owings.

Inquiries at the headquarters of the Salvation Army revealed that due to lack of funds for welfare activities, there will be no distribution of food baskets on Thanksgiving day nor have any arrangements been made for the serving of a free Thanksgiving dinner to needy people in the community, as has been customary in the past. Many church and fraternal organizations however are preparing baskets for those in need.

Register To Go to Press Early Thursday

There will be one edition of The Register Thursday. Following its custom, The Register will publish its only edition early on Thanksgiving Day. Deliveries to both city and rural subscribers will be made before noon.

STATEMENT MADE AFTER CONFERENCES

President Declares Existing Agreements Must Be Respected on Time

AGENCY IS SUGGESTED

Creation of Body to Exchange Views With Debtors Nations is Proposed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(UP)—President Hoover in a formal statement following the debt conference with congressional leaders today, declared that the existing European agreements must be respected "until they have been mutually modified by duly authorized representatives of the governments affected."

The president's views were set forth in a statement several thousand words long in which he reviewed American policy toward the war debts.

After this review, the president said that in view of his responsibility he wanted to set forth his views on the present situation.

Mr. Hoover declared that congress should create an agency to exchange views with the debtor nations, the agency to report back to congress such recommendations as they "deemed desirable."

The president further declared that this commission should be partially identical in membership to the American delegations to the world economic and general disarmament conferences.

He declared "the worldwide crisis has at least temporarily increased the weight of all debts throughout the world."

Regarding the December 15 payments, the statement said, "no facts have been presented by the debtor governments which would justify such postponements under the principles heretofore laid down by this country."

"The suggestion that the suspension of payments is a temporary measure, the statement said, "is a fact which has been presented by the debtor governments which would justify such postponements under the principles heretofore laid down by this country."

POLICE OF FRESNO GUARD CHINATOWN

FRESNO, Calif., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Police reserves stood ready today to guard residents of Fresno's Chinatown as county authorities investigated the possibility that a young Oriental found dead near Fowler was a "long killing" victim.

The body of the Oriental, believed to have been a Chinese, was found, badly mangled, on the Southern Pacific tracks. Bloodstains found on the right-of-way indicated, sheriff's officers said, that the man apparently was killed somewhere else and his body placed on the tracks in an attempt to make it appear he was struck by a train.

ROTTEN EGGS ARE HURLED AT ACTORS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 23.—(UP)—The resplendent finery of many film notables was spoiled almost last night by an incident "hunger" demonstration staged in front of a theater presenting the premiere of a new Eddie Cantor picture.

A number of stars and other film notables had filed into the theater and others were arriving in stock limousines when the foyer of the theater became the target for a light barrage of rotten eggs.

Silk hats ducked to cover along with the more humble chequers of newspaper photographers. No one was struck although a number of celebrities narrowly escaped by their alacrity in quitting a radio microphone in front of the theater.

FORMER RICHFIELD OFFICER IN PRISON

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Calif., Nov. 23.—(UP)—James A. Talbot, former multimillionaire chairman of the board of the Richfield Oil company, entered San Quentin prison today to begin serving a two to 20-year term for grand theft.

Warden James B. Holohan gave him the number "53210" and assigned him at once to labor in the jute mill, where he joined Frank J. Egan, former San Francisco public defender, and other "ex-prominenters" who ran afoul of the law.

Talbot, who gave his occupation as "bookkeeper" when he registered at the prison, was brought here from the Los Angeles county jail by Deputy Sheriff Frank Cochran. He must serve two grand theft sentences consecutively, the exact length of his term to be fixed at some future date.

BRANDEIS PAYS HITLER RENEWS CALL TODAY ON NEGOTIATIONS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(UP)—President-elect Roosevelt today made his first move toward closer cooperation between the executive and judicial branches of the government.

The governor interrupted a series of purely political conferences to receive Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis. Brandeis, leader of the court's liberal group, was an early morning caller at Roosevelt's hotel suite.

To his friends during the campaign the governor confided his earnest desire to discover a common ground of understanding between the court and the executive branch of the government. Some persons have speculated whether

5000 ACRES BURNED IN FOREST BLAZE

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Four hundred men today were battling a brush fire which started on the slopes of San Jacinto mountains late yesterday. More than 5000 acres had been destroyed today, C. C. Pindell, lieutenant at Tahquitz Peak, estimated.

Reports that State Ranger James Van Cleave and a force of 60 men had been trapped in a canyon by the flames were denied by Pindell, who said Van Cleave's crew was working safely on the Banning side of the blaze.

The blaze, one of the worst of the year, was aided by a brisk wind and low humidity. Practically no rain has fallen in the region since last spring.

The fire broke out in Poppet Creek canyon, spreading north and south to Castille and Lamb canyons.

Fire fighters were recruited in Banning, Riverside, San Jacinto and Hemet.

HOOPER DAM SITE IS MOVED 20 FEET

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Hoover dam, world's greatest engineering feat, will be constructed 20 feet farther upstream than originally planned to permit the use of larger generators, it was announced today.

Because the city of Los Angeles requires power from a certain type of generator, which is larger than that originally planned, it became necessary to move the damsite upstream.

The new generators will have a capacity of 1,800,000 horsepower, instead of the 1,000,000 originally planned.

CHARGES OF PAPER DENIED BY INSULL

ATHENS, Nov. 23.—(UP)—The report published in the newspaper Kathimerini that Samuel Insull, indicted Chicago utilities magnate, had brought $5,000,000 in bank notes and letters of credit to Greece was denied today by Insull.

Charles A. Bellows and Andrew J. Vlachos, assistant state's attorneys in Athens seeking Insull's extradition to Chicago on embezzlement charges, continued conferences with American officials.

THREE GUESSES

FARMERS WILL ASK PUBLIC OWNERSHIP

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 23.—(UP)—California farmers, denied lower rates from electric power companies, will seek relief through public ownership in the next legislature, according to plans launched here today.

Officials of the state grange in Sacramento announced that bills would be introduced next January extending to rural groups power to condemn transmission facilities of privately owned utilities.

Such legislation will have the united backing of California agricultural interests. It was predicted by George Schlemmer, master of the state grange, and O. W. Newman, editor of the grange magazine.

RESUME KLAN RAID PROBE NEXT FRIDAY

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—(UP)—The county grand jury Friday will renew its inquiry of an asserted Ku Klux Klan raid on the home of David Milder in Long Beach last week.

Seven witnesses, including Milder and his wife, who were among the nine injured by the raiders, were examined yesterday to testify purportedly that "about 50 men" descended upon their home, planted a fiery cross in their front yard and their guests. The Milder were charged by the raiders with holding a communist meeting.

After examining the witnesses, the grand jury indicated it would request that the inquiry be broadened to include the Long Beach police department which released 12 men caught in the raid. Four of them reportedly were armed. Police held four other asserted raiders on charges of felonious assault.

MONOPOLY ON HOPS CUTTING IS FOUND

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 23.—(UP)—California farmers who expected to start producing hops on a large scale have found themselves confronted by virtually a monopoly on cuttings from which new vines are started. It was admitted here today by George Miller, superintendent of the E. Clemens Horst properties.

Production is seldom begun from seeds, Miller said, and it requires two years for a cutting to reach full maturity. Approximately 75 growers in the state thus have a "corner" on all the hop cuttings available.

"I don't think cuttings can be bought anywhere in the state for love or money," he declared.

GASOLINE TAX LOSS BECOMING SMALLER

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Business is getting better, if gasoline sales are any indication, Fred E. Stewart, member of the state board of equalization said today.

Last month's gasoline tax assessment was $3,300,438, a decline of 2 per cent under the same month in 1931, it was announced.

"The percentage of loss is becoming smaller with each succeeding month's report," Stewart said. "The gasoline industry appears to be following the trend of other businesses where the percentage of decrease is being cut down monthly."

WILL INVESTIGATE VANDEGRIFT DEMAND

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 23.—(UP)—State officials who received a demand from Roland A. Vandegrift, director of finance, to turn over money collected from voluntary pay contributions on the part of state employees, today took steps to determine the legality of such a move.

Vandegrift's letters were sent to Frank C. Jordan, secretary of state; Friend W. Richardson, building and loan commissioner; Mark H. Gates, secretary of the state harbor commission; Irene E. Cook, state board of equalization; Harold Best, veterans' welfare board; and Dan H. Blood, director of natural resources.

The finance director pointed out that these disbursing agents had no right to hold up the money contributed by employees.

ROOSEVELT LEAVES CAPITAL FOR SOUTH

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(UP)—President-elect Roosevelt left Washington today at the end of a busy 24-hour visit which included conferences with President Hoover and Secretary of the Treasury Mills on the war debt situation.

Roosevelt left on his special train at 1:18 p.m. for Warm Springs, Ga. Before arriving there he was expected to issue a statement on the Washington situation as he found it in his unprecedented trip to the capital in advance of his inauguration.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

BEVERLY HILLS, Nov. 23.—(To the Editor of The Register.) Got a thrill this morning, Walter Lippmann, a grand writer, that I would no more miss reading than miss breakfast. Also he made the best radio talk the night of election that was made. Well, he had actually read something I had written about the debts. I couldn't have been much more happy if Mr. Hoover and Roosevelt had slummed over in my literary pasture. Course he didn't agree with me. But just to be disagreed with by a man like him is a thrill. Speaking of good writers Mr. Brisbane is out here. Months ago on my porch he bet Mrs. Ned McLean the Republicans wouldn't carry eight States. I thought he was crazy. He was, by two States. Everything is changing in America. People are taking their comedians serious, and their politicians as a joke, when it used to be visa-versa.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

Burglary Here Last Night Nets Loot Valued At $11150

S. A. HOME IS RANSACKED AT SUPPER HOUR

Taking advantage of the fact that members of the family were away from home, a burglar ransacked the home of Henry B. Orsiga, at 567 East Beverly place last night and escaped with diamonds and other jewelry, and clothing worth $1150 according to a report made to the city police.

Entrance into the house was made after a screen had been cut from a window at the northeast corner of the house. The thief is believed to have left in the same way. The burglary was committed between 6 and 7:30 p. m.

Listed among the articles stolen were a white gold ring with three diamonds, worth $200; a platinum wrist watch with small diamonds, worth $200; a Swiss watch set with diamonds, worth $300; an Elgin open faced watch, worth $100, a pear shaped stick pin with three diamonds, valued at $150, and an onyx ring with a small diamond, worth $25.

Two pistols also were taken by the thief.

closed at their hotel all day, seeking to frame a letter which would leave the doors open to further negotiation.

Hitler told the president two days ago he could not obtain a parliamentary majority, and asked instead that he be allowed to rule under a semi-dictatorship similar to the Von Papen regime. The president refused.

The latest answer, it was reported, would not explicitly renounce Hitler's claim to the chancellorship but would hint at his readiness to agree to Hitler's representative in a prospective "presidential" cabinet to rule under Hindenburg's dictatorship. If true, it means Hitler has adopted entirely new tactics and would consent to his party's sharing in a government which he did not control.

The three were: James McManis, Clifford Hobson and James Kelsay. All three waived their preliminary examination and were held to answer to the demand court. Bail of $1500 was demanded in each case. No bail was made.

DR. LEECHING NOMINATED AS 20-30 LEADER

Nomination of officers featured the business meeting held in conjunction with the regular weekly meeting of the Twenty-Third club, young men's service organization, which was held last night in Ketter's cafe.

Dr. Horace Leeching, Santa Ana physician, was nominated for president to succeed Leland Finley, who now heads the organization. Joel Ogle was nominated for first vice president, Lyman Farwell for second vice president, LeRoy Burns for secretary, Maynard Oaks for treasurer and James McCalla for sergeant-at-arms.

Col. S. H. Finley, Santa Ana's director on the Metropolitan Water district board of directors, was the featured speaker at the meeting. He gave a detailed and enlightening address on the workings of the water district and of the plans for bringing water to Santa Ana and to other cities in the district from the Colorado river.

Joel Ogle gave a report on the dance which the club will sponsor and which will be held at the Orange American Legion clubhouse on December 2.

HOOVER ISSUES STATEMENT ON FOREIGN DEBTS

tion of the December 15 payments would permit the government to enter undisturbed into discussions now proposed does not appear to me to carry weight," the statement said. "Contrary to this view, it seems to me that discussion would proceed under more favorable circumstances if the terms of these obligations are carried out rather than suspended prior to discussion. By that I do not mean to say that if extraordinary circumstances, such as depreciation of currencies and general fall in world trade, have rendered immediate transfers of this next payments in dollars impossible to nations without losses on both sides, our government should be unwilling to consider a proposal that payments of this installment be made to our account in foreign currencies, transfers to be effected from time to time as the situation of the exchanges permits, of course with guarantees as to value of such currencies. If any such circumstances exist and are called to the attention of this government, I shall transmit them to congress for prompt consideration, but I must insist that existing agreements be respected until they have been mutually modified by duly authorized representatives of the governments affected."

PRESIDENT CONFERS WITH CONGRESS HEADS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(UP)—President Hoover today met with two cabinet members and 14 congressional leaders in the cabinet room of the White House to map out America's war debt policy.

An answer to requests from five European powers for suspension of their Dec. 15 debt payments and re-examination of the entire debt structure was expected to come from today's session. The administration-congressional conference followed one held yesterday between Mr. Hoover and his newly elected successor, Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York.

While no definite arrangements have been made for another conference between Mr. Hoover and Governor Roosevelt, sources close to the president indicated the two might meet again today.

Secretary of Treasury Mills and Secretary of State Stimson were the first arrivals. They appeared at 9:30 a. m. 40 minutes before the conference was scheduled to begin.

Speaker of the House Garner, vice president-elect, and House Majority Leader Rainey arrived a few minutes before 10 o'clock.

As Rainey, powerful leader of the house Democratic majority, walked through the White House lobby to the cabinet room he was greeted by newspapermen asking his position on phases of the debt problem. He declared with an emphatic series of "yeses" that he would oppose reduction or cancellation of the European indebtedness and in common with Chairman Collier of the house ways and means committee would oppose cancellation of the debt funding commission.

The recreation of the debt commission.

ANAHEIM MAN CONFESSES MURDER; BUT AIM WAS BAD

When a man kills another man, he generally tries to escape, so when Ed Liptrap, Anaheim Mexican went to the sheriff's office yesterday and said he had just killed a man, Deputy Sheriff G. F. McKelvey wasn't so sure.

After hearing the man's story, which related that he threw a rock at a stranger he thought was trying to flirt with his wife, and "seeing" him down in the front seat of his automobile as if dead, McKelvey thought it would be a good idea to find the body.

mission was one of the suggestions offered by Mr. Hoover in his conference with Governor Roosevelt. Roosevelt declined to accept the plan.

Secretary of Treasury Mills, Mr. Hoover's close adviser on war debt matters, indicated that the White House probably would make a public statement on the result of today's conference. This statement was expected to be more detailed than the short communique issued following the Hoover-Roosevelt talk last night, which merely said that the two men had "made progress."

Other congressional leaders who met with Mr. Hoover were: Senators Harrison, Dem., Miss., Reed, Repn., Pa., George, Dem., Ga., Smoot, Repn., Utah, Watson, Repn., Ind., and King, Dem., Utah.

Representatives Doughton, Dem., N. C., Bacharach, Repn., N. J., Treadway, Repn., Mass., Rainey, Dem., Ill., Hawley, Repn., Ore., and Collier, Dem., Miss.

The late, which was called a cabinet room in which Mr. Hoover and congressional leaders were talking has witnessed many conferences of grave importance. Issues of peace and war and far-reaching decisions on financial matters have been discussed in this simple but tastefully furnished chamber.

The conferees were grouped around a long mahogany table. They were seated in comfortable leather chairs. Ten of the chairs bear the name plates of cabinet members. The president sat at the head of the table.

ROOSEVELT MEETS WITH HIS SUCCESSOR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Europe's plea for immediate debt relief was discussed today by President Hoover and his successor, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

President Hoover expects the December 15 payments of $124,000,000 to be made.

Real consideration of the whole $11,000,000,000 problem, it appeared today after the Hoover-Roosevelt White House conference, might have to go over until after the new administration takes office March 4.

President-elect Roosevelt chose to remain aloof until he becomes president.

"That's not my baby," he told fellow Democrats later.

In the red room conference, the United Press learned, Hoover outlined his plan to Roosevelt. It provided for:

1.—Rejection of the requests of five European powers that December 15 debt payments be postponed.

2.—Creation by congress of another debt funding commission to reconsider the entire problem.

Mr. Hoover asked Governor Roosevelt to join in supporting this plan. Roosevelt declined. Later the president-elect discussed the proposition and his refusal to participate with a group of house and senate Democrats gathered in his Mayflower hotel suite toward midnight.

This, in a word, was the story that lay behind the cryptic communique issued at the White House after the Hoover-Roosevelt two-hour session in the red room ended. The communique said:

"The president and Governor Roosevelt discussed at length the subjects mentioned in their telegraphic communication. It is felt that progress has been made. The president confers with the members of congress tomorrow when the subject will be further pursued."

Left to wrestle with the immediate debt problem alone, Mr. Hoover arranged to confer today with ranking Republican and Democratic members of the house of ways and means committee and the senate finance committee.

Speaker Garner also was asked to be present.

A more detailed statement of Mr. Hoover's position was expected after this conference.

An adamant congress, seemingly inflexible against cancellation and almost equally set against further postponements cast its shadow across the Hoover-Roosevelt debt conference.

Speaker Garner, the silent vice presidential candidate, emerged suddenly as one of the dominating influences in the situation.

The speaker, who scarcely uttered a word throughout his campaign as a vice presidential candidate, was at President-Elect Roosevelt's elbow most of the time here. He told Roosevelt emphatically that congress would oppose any weakening on debts.

this policy would extend to a discussion of the court regarding the permissible alcoholic content of a constitutional beverage, should be legalized.

Neither Mr. Roosevelt nor Brandeis discussed their conversations, but it was understood that the president-elect had in mind some form of cooperation between the judicial and executive branches.

Governor Roosevelt spent late this morning, arising at 9:45 a. m. to enjoy a hearty breakfast of orange juice, scrambled eggs, bacon, toast and coffee. The first caller was Justice Brandeis who was followed by the governor's uncle, Frederick Delano; his cousin, Warren Delano Robbins, and Rep. Douglas, Democrat, Ariz. Later in the morning he saw Sen. Correll, Democrat, Tennessee; Rep. Davis, Dem., Tenn., and Governor Olson of Minnesota.

L. A. MAN ARRAIGNED ON TRAFFIC CHARGE

H. W. Spaulding, 40, of 2057 Deouvia street, Los Angeles, charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, following an automobile accident near El Toro Monday night, was taken from the county hospital today to San Juan Capistrano, where he was arraigned on the charge before Justice John Landell.

His preliminary examination was set for next Tuesday at 2 p. m. and bail of $500 was demanded. He did not make bail.

Spaulding was the driver of the car occupied by Mary Daugherty, 27, of 4163 Monroe street, Los Angeles and Frances Murphy, 35, of 2436 Broadway, San Diego, who were seriously hurt.

Their car is said to have side-swiped a truck driven by R. L. Jones, of San Diego.

FARM BUREAU WATER GROUP HOLDS PARLEY

Orange County Farm Bureau's newly appointed water committee met this morning in the office of the Farm Bureau and after appointment of four sub-committees adopted a program for the coming year that is a continuation of last year's work. The committee will meet on the fourth Thursday of each month at 4 p. m. in the future.

In the past the Farm Bureau has had two representatives of the coordinated water committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce. The bureau has, in the past, been represented by R. J. McFadden and Dr. D. D. Waynick. Early this month McFadden was elected president of the Orange County Farm Bureau and because of the magnitude of his task as head of that organization, E. Steward, chairman of the water committee, this morning was appointed as his successor on the water committee.

Dr. D. D. Waynick was named chairman of the use and supply sub-committee with J. A. Murdy Jr., Smeltzer, and J. E. Lewis, Yorba Linda, assisting. This group will conduct a study for prevention of waste water usage in the county; study present and potential supply; importation of water and study the state water plan.

Walter Humphrey, of Fullerton, was named chairman of the sewage reclamation committee and will have as assistants W. C. Mauerhan, Katella, and John Knudson, La Habra. This organization will study the feasibility of construction of a demonstration reclamation plant in the county, conduct an educational program and continue with research into the possibilities of reclaiming sewage water for irrigation.

The conservation and flood control group will be headed by E. E. Campbell, of Orange. His aides will be E. E. Crumrine, San Juan Capistrano, and Henry Burdorf, Fullerton. This group will study the two phases of spreading flood waters in the upper counties and in Orange county. This study will be for the purpose of formulating a Farm Bureau policy in the matter. The group also will investigate the proposed water district provided for under the flood control act. This investigation will trend toward division of the county according to basin area.

Efforts of all sub-committees will be coordinated by the advisory committee consisting of Chairman Steward of the water committee and the heads of all sub-committees. In addition to coordinating work of all groups it will maintain contacts with other organizations, direct necessary legislation and study the possibility of formation of a general water district in the county.

ranched, saw a man sitting in the old F. E. depot on Lemon street. His attention was drawn to the man in the waiting room because of the large smears of blood on his shirt. Officers were called and Chief B. F. Richardson and Officer Homer Davis hurried to the station and arrested Roane without a struggle, all the right apparently having left him because of the serious wound he had received.

Police searched the man and found $108 on his person which they said had been stolen from the cash drawer of the bakery. The money was returned to the bakery owners. Coming here from San Diego Roane had been in Orange county but three hours when he was arrested.

Another attempt to burglarize an Orange store was also made this morning. The Home Sanitary Market on South Glassell street was entered but nothing was stolen, according to police reports.

An effort had been made to force the front door open and the back door had been forced open. It was discovered. Officer James Johnson reported that he heard someone around in the alley at the rear but was unable to locate anyone.

Motorist Draws Suspended Fine On Drunk Driving

Believe it or not, P. W. Van Dorn, 38, Anaheim man, arrested by California Highway Patrol officers Horace Inge and Ernie Sawyer, yesterday, and booked at the county jail for driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, escaped with a $25 fine and that was suspended.

Van Dorn was booked for "violation of Motor Vehicle Act, Section No. 112." He was later taken to Judge Charles Keuchel's court in Anaheim where he pleaded guilty to drunk driving under section 367B of the act, a misdemeanor, and the "heavy" fine was imposed and then suspended.

John Koss, of 1005 East Fourth street, was arrested early last night by Patrolman Robert Elliott on a drunk charge. He was lodged in the county jail.

4 INJURED IN ACCIDENTS IN PAST 24 HOURS

One man was probably fatally injured and three others were hurt in two other spectacular automobile accidents reported in the county during the past 24 hours. One of the accidents was near Fullerton, one in Buena Park and the third in Laguna Beach.

John Spohn, 48, resident of Court street, Buena Park, received injuries, which may cause his death, at 5:30 o'clock last night when the car he was driving crashed into a car driven by Clair Leedom, 30, of 1355 Monterey street, Bellflower.

The accident took place near Spohn's home, on Court street. The man was rushed to the Orange county hospital, where it was said today that he suffered a basal fracture of the skull.

No one in the Leedom machine was hurt.

Race Rider Hurt

Riding in a police officer's car, which he had borrowed, Jack Gerrety, 27, well known San Francisco jockey was badly cut about the head when the car got from beyond his control after striking several dips on the main street at Laguna Beach yesterday afternoon. The car hit two parked cars at the curb, a woman in one of them was slightly injured, and then it came to a stop a block away, facing the direction from whence it had come.

Several stitches were needed to close the wound in Gerrety's scalp. He was treated at the Laguna Beach emergency hospital.

The woman injured was Mrs. Vernon Mangrove of 2058 South Main street, Santa Ana. She was badly shaken up when the car plowed into the machine in which she was sitting.

The other car damaged was the property of Benjamin G. Roby, of the Laguna Canyon road. No one was in it at the time.

Travelling Fast

Gerrety came to Laguna Beach several days ago to visit a friend and is staying at the Bishop hotel. He is scheduled to go into training shortly for the meeting at Agua Caliente, which opens Christmas day. He became acquainted with Officer E. R. Pyke and yesterday borrowed Pyke's car. At the time of the accident he had traveled down a six per cent grade at a high rate of speed. There are two drainage dips at the Broadway intersection. The car leaped in the air twice as it crossed them and began to shimmy so hard that Gerrety lost control of the wheel.

Joe Fuentes, Fullerton man, was slightly injured yesterday afternoon when the car he was driving collided at Brookhurst road and Valencia Drive, with a car driven by A. Sullivan, also of Fullerton.

Fuentes was taken to the Orange county hospital where it was said he was treated for cuts and bruises.

PROPOSE PLAN TO RE-UNITE 'BOOST' BODIES

Steps toward reuniting the Santa Ana Merchants association, composed entirely of members engaged in retail trade, with the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, were taken today when Herbert P. Rankin, well known local merchant, appeared before the board of directors of the chamber and presented a method of bringing about the suggested consolidation.

Following a general discussion, during which the desirability of uniting the two bodies was pointed out by several speakers, a resolution accepting the proposal submitted by Rankin was adopted.

President Charles E. Ruedge of the chamber appointed J. P. Baumgartner, William C. Jerome and Otto Haan to represent the chamber in negotiations with the Merchants association.

Until a short time ago the Santa Ana Merchants association was a part of the chamber of commerce, operating as a unit of that body and devoting its activities to matters affecting retail merchants.

Later this section withdrew from the chamber and formed an independent organization.

The plan suggested called for organizing a merchants division of the chamber of commerce, to be self-governing, with a directorate of five members who will be members of the chamber of commerce directorate, and that a fixed proportion of the time of the secretarial staff be devoted to work of the merchants division. The plan also calls for granting the merchants division the use of facilities of the chamber of commerce, payment of assessments for special work into a special fund to be under the direction of the five directors of the merchants division, and the elimination of special help.

Officers Harry Prichard and Joe Ryan made the arrest.

Chester Harrison, Santa Ana, wanted in Anaheim on a non-support charge, was arrested by sheriff's officers yesterday. He later was released on his own recognizance.

COMMUNITIES BOMBED AND ATTACKED FROM AIR LAST NIGHT AS BATTLE BALLYHOO

Carrying with them a sufficient quantity of six and nine inch bombs to convince any layman that the war had started again, 10 crews of "bombers" from the Santa Ana Legion drum corps sallied forth at 6:30 last evening to lay barrages over Tustin, Santa Ana, Orange, Anaheim, Garden Grove, and Fullerton.

At the same hour airplanes were warmed up at the Martin and Long airports in Santa Ana and Fullerton and took the air shortly afterward to participate in the "drive" and play the part of enemy aircraft. The occasion was a publicity stunt on the part of the veterans to advertise the battle spectacle "A Night in the Argonne" which is being staged by the third battalion of the 185th Infantry California National guard and the Legion drum corps.

The "high raid" got under way in Santa Ana shortly after 7 o'clock last evening with the appearance overhead of a light plane carrying a flare. After a few circles over the city, four batteries of aerial bombs opened up in different locations, with brilliant flashes and heavy detonations indicating their positions. Many startled citizens rushed into the streets to ascertain the cause and for a short time the police station was deluged with calls for information.

Similar action was taking place at the same time in the nearby communities and the flashes of the exploding aerial bombs, were visible in spite of the fog, followed several seconds later with the "booming" sound of distant artillery. The plane covering the towns of Tustin, Orange and Santa Ana was flown by Dale Decker and Floyd Martin of this city while the plane covering Anaheim, Garden Grove and Fullerton was flown by Claude Long, of Longs Airport, Fullerton.

Work of preparing the municipal bowl is continuing with a large crew of volunteers reporting Thursday for work.

TECHNIQUE OF VIOLINIST IS HIGHLY PRAISED

BY ELEANOR ELLIOTT

It seemed very appropriate that the part of Miss Helen Tannenbaum, youthful violin artist of this city, and her teacher, Josef Borissoff, that the winter concert tour upon which the young musician is to visit various leading cities of California, should be launched here in Santa Ana, where she started her violin studies.

Held last night in Ebell auditorium, the recital attracted a group of music lovers and connoisseurs, and what seemed a special tribute to the gifts of this talented young girl, there were many of the city's leading teachers both of violin and piano present to add their acclaim to that of those less conversant with the technicalities of music.

Displays Mastery

It was an interesting thing to see this 15-year-old girl, little more than a child, display a mastery of violin technique that could be surpassed by few concert artists on the stage today. One of the outstanding things about her playing is her complete mental and physical poise, which imbues her audience with a sense of security and assurance of a faultless program.

Last night's program was well selected to show Miss Tannenbaum's amazing technique. Associated with her in its presentation, was another of the city's youthful artists from whom great things may be expected. This was Evarad Stovall, piano pupil of Earl Fraser, whose work was marvelous as an accompanist. Present plans are that the two young people will continue together on the concert tour to follow through the winter months.

Cesar Franck's Sonata for violin and piano, served to launch the program, an unusually difficult and ambitious number for such youthful artists to present, but which was faultlessly rendered from a technical standpoint.

Prophecies Career

Perhaps it is in technique that Miss Tannenbaum excels at present, and when she has added the richness of experience that time will bring, it is safe to assume that she will be recognized as a leading artist of the American concert stage. Santa Anans will recall that she received the foundation of her musical training here under Elwood Bear, well known teacher, who last night asserted that he was proud indeed to have had the privilege of launching her on a career which he feels certain will lead to fame.

After the four movements of the Cesar Franck Sonata, Allegretto ben moderato, Allegro, Recitativo-Fantasia and Allegretto poco mosso, the Paganini-Wilhelm Concerto in D major followed, and proved one of the high lights of the evening, with its intricate bowing and fingering, in which Miss Tannenbaum's mastery of each was demonstrated.

Audience Spellbound

It was in her final number, "Chorus of Dervishes" (Beethoven-Auer) however that the artist rose to her surest heights, and probably her finest concert violinist.

PREPARATIONS COMPLETED FOR BIG BARBECUE

The American Legion county council and the Cooperative Council of Unemployed of Orange county, the latter comprised of unemployed associations in the county, have all preparations made for the mammoth barbecue to be held at Irvine park December 4 to raise funds to purchase food supplies for the unemployed during the winter.

A pit 21 feet long and five feet deep will be used to barbecue 200 pounds of Al baby beef to a golden brown for the crowd expected. Chief Valdez, with his able corps of assistants, is busy with the minor details of the barbecue, his plans being to give the largest and best Spanish pit barbecue to the citizens of Orange county since the days of the Spanish missions.

The untiring efforts of the unemployed and the legionnaires to assure all patrons of this cause a day long to be remembered as "Barbecue day" in Orange county, leaders in the plan declare. Drills by the Legion, auxiliaries, and never a dull moment in this day of festivities will be the order of the day.

Reports coming into the central organization show an unusual spirit of cooperation in the work of aiding the unemployed at this time, it is reported, with tickets being in demand in every section of Orange county, promising relief to families who need help throughout the coming winter.

Tickets may be secured from any Legion post in Orange county. Charles Swanner, chairman of the community betterment committee of Santa Ana post, calls the attention of legionnaires to the fact that they may obtain tickets from him, as Santa Ana post is anxious to head the list in this cause.

Fullerton Woman Asks Reno Divorce

Rose Marie Seale, wife of Joshua Edward Seale, owner of the Seale Funeral home in Fullerton, has filed a divorce suit in Reno, Nevada, according to news dispatches from that city. The report said the couple were married at La Habra, California, on September 21, 1925. The divorce complaint charged cruelty, it was said.

have ever played to a more tensely attentive audience. Ebell auditorium was wrapped in complete silence except for the magic strains of the violin, and at the close of the number this silence continued for a space before it was loosened by a wave of applause which continued until three more numbers had been played.

This all followed a well balanced series of numbers in which the third group was especially interesting, opening as it did with "Baal Shem" (Bernard Bloch) embodying so much of the mysticism and beauty of the Hebrew religion. Fritz Kreisler's "Tambourin-Chinois" and "La fille aux cheveux de lin" (Debussy) (played with the lute) were equally beautiful, the group closing with a delicate and spirited rendering of "Introduction et Tarentelle" by Sarasate.

Encore numbers were a Study by Rode, for which the Kreisler piano accompaniment was played by the pianist; Kreisler's arrangement of "Songs My Mother Taught Me," and "Theme and Variations" by Corelli.

NEWPORT LIFE GUARD CAPTAIN DIES SUDDENLY

Walter J. Deal, 28, captain of the Newport Beach life guards for the past two and a half years, died early this morning in Balboa hospital following a minor operation he underwent in Los Angeles Saturday.

Deal, one of the most popular life guards who has ever been employed at the local beach, was just completing plans to take a trip to the South Seas when he went to Los Angeles for an operation of a minor nature.

He had a slight cold at the time, according to his many friends at the beach, which may have caused him to contract pneumonia following the shock of the operation.

Deal came to Newport Beach from San Diego, where he had been graduated from junior college. He was a native of Wabash, Indiana.

He was the son of Daniel H.

WEATHER MAN IS SPEAKER AT FARM MEETING

Ralph McFadden, newly elected president of the Orange county Farm Bureau, was the guest of honor at the meeting of the West Orange Farm Center last night.

In a brief talk McFadden outlined the program planned by the bureau for the coming year. He also urged members to ask for the retention of Leon Wiltzell as railroad commissioner. Eric Eastman acted as song leader for the group singing. Joe Witt, president of the center presided.

An interesting report of the state convention at Marysville, was given by Holmes Bishop, Farm Bureau director. Bishop called attention to the 29 resolutions passed at the state convention, the more important of which included one asking for a reduction of state government taxes, one opposing the placement of the railroads on a fee basis and one favoring state responsibility of eradication of new pests and diseases.

The speaker of the evening was Floyd Young, of Pomona, government meteorologist, he was accompanied by his assistant, J. A. Rathbone. Young illustrated his talk with moving pictures and spoke on "What's Behind the Weather."

A baked ham dinner was served before the program and hostesses were Mrs. H. D. Witt, Mrs. Henry Schnackenberg and Mrs. Fred Albers.

Soviet Russia now has more women than men studying in its medical schools.

Deal of Aladena, brother of Kenneth Deal of Vasco, and grandson of Mrs. E. W. Massey, of Long Beach.

Deal was said to have been one of the most efficient life guards at the beach. Not one life had been lost in the city limits of Newport Beach during the past year from drowning.

Funeral services had not been arranged today.

HEALTH SEALS FOR CHRISTMAS IN MAILS TODAY

Four million pairs of little boys and girls singing Christmas carols will enter Orange county homes next Friday to bring a message of cheer and make their appeal for support of the campaign which is being waged against tuberculosis. All of which means that 40,000 letters each containing 100 seals will be placed in the mail tonight by the Orange County Tuberculosis and Health association.

The colorful little seals will reach Orange county homes this year via the "day coach" route instead of the "prior car" system of transportation. In other words the seals will be mailed at a total cost for postage of one cent per envelope.

"We believe that the public will appreciate this economy and the appeal to the appeal as wholeheartedly as ever," said R. W. Balch of Anaheim, president of the Health association. "The saving is passed along, as every penny saved means one more with which to wage the war on tuberculosis, which still takes the lives of more than 5,000 persons annually in the United States."

WILL SPEND $500 ON CITY STREETS FOR 10 MANHOLES

ORANGE, Nov. 23.—The sum of $500 will be spent in installing 10 new manholes in the sewer system. Work on the project will be started at once by the city forces, according to C. C. Bonebrake, city street superintendent.

Tax exemptions amounting to $407.72 were allowed and they included 20 soldiers exemptions, one operative property exemption and one duplicate assessment exemption. Two applications were not allowed as apers had not been filed in time to grant them.

J. A. Fowler was granted permission to move two gasoline pumps and tanks from 243 South Main street to 167 South Main street to Frank's barbeque.

A petition was presented to the council asking that the city ordinances regarding prohibition be enforced. It was signed by Dr. Robert Burns McAulay of the Presbyterian church, the Rev. L. V. Lucas of the Methodist church, the Rev. Franklin Minick of the Christian church, the Rev. J. S. Sorenson of the Menonite church, the Rev. H. F. STATUS OF WAR DEBTS PROBLEM

THEIR DEBT TO U.S.

	TOTAL OWED U.S.	PRINCIPAL	INTEREST
GREAT BRITAIN	$11,105,965,000	$1,911,798,299 PAID
FRANCE	$6,847,674,000	$486,075,891 PAID
ITALY	$2,407,677,000	$97,584,422 PAID
BELGIUM	$727,780,000	$52,191,273 PAID
POLAND	$435,560,000	$22,646,298 PAID

The chart shown herewith gives the background of the war debt puzzle that President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt are trying to solve, as the result of the action of European nations in asking suspension of debt payments due to the United States on December 15, with a view to revision.

The big money bag at the left shows the total amount of the war debts owed the United States by the 13 principal debtor nations, due to be paid in 60 years. It also shows the division between principal and interest.

The bars show the individual status of the five biggest debtors—how much they owe, how much of this is represented by Principal and by interest and how much they have paid on their debt thus far. It will be noticed that the interest rates differ widely, because of varying concessions granted by Uncle Sam.

For every dollar originally loaned Europe, the United States is due to collect approximately $2 in principal and interest over the period of 60 years. In this sense there has been no "cancellation" of any part of the debt. But in the debt settlement agreements with the various nations several years ago the original interest rates were greatly reduced on the grounds of "capacity to pay" and for other reasons. On this basis, some statisticians figure we have "canceled" 23.5 per cent of Europe's obligations.

The gist of the present situation is that these nations intended to pay their debts to Uncle Sam with reparations payments they collected from Germany. Germany, according to the Young plan, was supposed to pay the allies $26,877,000,000—principal and interest—in installments over the next 59 years. Similarly, these nations were to pay the United States principal and interest to a total of $22,143,000,000.

At Lausanne last June, Great Britain and other nations agreed—on condition—to let Germany off for $714,000,000 instead of the $26,000,000,000. The condition was that the allies would let Germany off, provided the United States would radically reduce or cancel the war debts.

The United States' position has been that the reparations due from Germany and the war debts owed this government are unrelated—that, regardless of any reductions in German reparations payments, Uncle Sam still expects payment of the debts owed him.

A very large part of the money that Uncle Sam has already collected from his war-time associates has come originally from America in the form of post-war loans to Germany. Fairly recent figures show that in a certain period the allies paid Uncle Sam $2,000,000,000 on their debts. In this same period, Uncle Sam had lent Germany $2,500,000,000 and Germany had paid $2,000,000,000 in reparations to the allies. Thus, in practice, this government had lent Germany all she had paid her creditors and a half billion more.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

FILIBUSTER

All but two southern Democratic dry senators are supposed to be lined up privately for repeal and beer.

These senators formerly were the backbone of the dry movement. Their switch is based on the success of the Democratic platform in the presidential election. If they jump the dry ship will not have enough of the crew left to man it. Borah will have to be cabin boy as well as pilot. He will be at the mercy of the wet waves.

The truth of these advance notices cannot be guaranteed until all senators are present and accounted for. But the information can be accepted as substantially accurate. The check was made by a prominent Democratic leader in person since election day.

It means Borah cannot expect enough support to conduct a decent, first class filibuster.

SPEAKER

Many deals are yet to be made before the next Speaker of the House is chosen in March.

It appears now Rainey of Illinois will get it. Byrns of Tennessee is slated to have floor leadership in that lineup. Friends of O'Connor, New York and McDuffie, Alabama, are energetic in their behalf. O'Connor, the Tammanyite, will get something, but probably neither of the two major posts. That also can be said of McDuffie, although he has a chance to be floor leader.

Rainey and Byrns rate the appointments by seniority.

G. O. P.

Yarns about Mr. Hoover being a candidate four years hence are pure pipe dreams. Most sponsors of these tales point to President Cleveland's comeback after a defeat. The difference is striking. Cleveland was defeated by popular vote of but 98,017 out of eleven million votes cast. His electoral college standing was 168 against 233 for Harrison.

Republican leaders talking about party reorganization here are not mentioning Mr. Hoover. They are looking for someone who can win back the West. A party house-cleaning is what they figure on.

That is why Senator Borah will sit in the inner council meetings during the Christmas holidays. There are reports Borah may undertake the reorganizing himself. The western wing he represents will unquestionably sing louder in the reorganized chorus. But he will probably prove to be an agent rather than a candidate himself. The presidency has passed by.

FATE

It can now be told that Mr. Hoover instead of Cox came closer to being the Democratic presidential nominee in 1920 than even he knows.

His candidacy was the subject of several private political conferences in the office of Attorney General Gregory at that time. Many of the influential Democratic leaders of Washington attended those meetings. One is authority for the statement that Mr. Hoover was virtually decided on at one time for the party nomination by this group.

The man who tells the story uses it to illustrate how the course of history might have been altered if subsequent developments had not prevented the Gregory group carrying out a tentative decision.

How different things might have been had they only been different.

BONDS

The Treasury will offer nearly three billions in new financing before March 4. Plans for it were discussed with Federal Reserve Board officials by Treasury Secretary Mills last week. The banks can handle it easily. What they do not want is a big bond issue for public works.

Treasury financing may be handled in such a way as to discourage attempts to float a public works issue. The manipulators can create the impression that the market for a larger issue does not exist.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin
SHARE WORK

There is reason to believe the Incoming Administration may take up the matter of job sharing and the shorter week officially. Reports have been made from a responsible quarter indicating the advisability of such a step.

The unofficial committee headed by Walter Teagle has not got very far. It tried to operate on a shoestring and the shoestring was frayed from the beginning. Present indications are that the National Headquarters will suspend operations by the end of the year. Local committees may continue to function thereafter.

The committees in the Cleveland, San Francisco and New York Federal Reserve districts have done the most effective work to date. New Jersey has been tough nut to crack and the Philadelphia district has been unable to make important headway.

The announcement of the New York Clearing House Association favoring the idea in principle was the result of some exceedingly skilled negotiations on the part of Mr. Teagle. New York workers are now assured of their jobs although no replacements have been added as yet.

One of the biggest New York banks is prepared to carry the plan to its logical conclusion and adopt the five-day week officially provided two other local banks will agree to simultaneous action. Next, additional employees will be recruited from the substantial roster of bank clerks now listed as dependent on city charity.

SENATE

Reports here indicate that Senator Robinson's leadership is in danger when the new senate convenes. There is a feeling in the party that he has been too easygoing in his dealings with the opposition. Also he lost prestige when Huey Long went into Robinson's home state and re-elected Mrs. Caraway against his wishes. Still another angle is the sectional question.

Wagner of New York has leadership aspirations but insiders here say that his Tammany affiliations will kill off his chances. Bulkley of Ohio is regarded as a possibility because of his excellent record although he is not among the seniors. New York's hot tip is that the man to watch is Key Pittman of Nevada. Pittman is a veteran of the senate and is said to have managed to remain on good terms with all factions of the party.

SPEAKER

Tammany also has a candidate for Speaker of the House in the person of John J. O'Connor but his name is being advanced more for trading purposes than because he has a chance. After its favorite son Tammany is most likely to support Joseph Byrns of Tennessee but National Headquarters workers are inclined to believe that McDuffie of Alabama has the inside track.

BUTLER

Nicholas Murray Butler's call to arms for Republican party reconstruction is not taken seriously. It is interpreted as a bid for a high place in party councils but Butler's personal following within the party is negligible. His ambitions have been a private joke to inside politicians ever since 1912.

SOCIALISTS

The Socialists were more bitterly disappointed about the votes for Thomas than they care to admit. They confidently expected at least two million votes. An inner movement has begun to change the party label while adhering to its principles in order to overcome emotional objection but this is apt to be blocked by those in power.

CITY

A clue to the political lineup in the city next year will be given when Governor Lehman appoints a successor as surrogate to Mayor O'Brien. Roosevelt, Al Smith and Curry each has a favorite candidate. The betting favors Judge Rosenman—sponsored by Roosevelt.

In more than one election district signs appeared in polling places asking those who intended to vote for McKee to register in a book. These books are now reposing in Tammany vaults.

There are half a dozen important vacancies still to be filled in the city administration. Three of them are commissionerships paying $15,000 a year.

Pressure is being used on McKee to leave them vacant until O'Brien can make the selections under Tammany Leader Curry's direction.

THE WAR WHOOP

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by N. C. Wyeth . . . inspired by the blood-curdling yells of war-mad savages, whose barbaric cruelty held America's early settlers in a constant state of terror. "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes.

No raw tobaccos in Luckies —that's why they're so mild

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

Legion To Award Scholarship Medals

JUNIOR HIGH STUDENTS TO BE HONORED

Two boys and two girls in the junior high schools of Santa Ana will receive the first American Legion Honor Scholarship medals January 27, closing day for the first semester. The American Legion committee of Santa Ana post No. 121, American Legion, headed by Jules Markel, met with the board of education last night and outlined the plan for award and received the endorsement of the board.

According to Markel, awarding the medals is a part of the Legion's Americanization program and will provide medals for the outstanding boy and girl of each junior high school each semester. Selection of the boys and girls to receive the awards will be made through cooperation of teachers and students in the two schools. The students will vote on their selections and the teachers will add their votes. Winners will not be known until the time of the presentation.

Winners of the medals are to be selected on five points: honor, courage, scholarship, leadership and service. Each qualification counts 20 points toward the winning score.

Superior Judge G. K. Scovel, a member of the Santa Ana Legion post's Americanization committee, will present the first medals on January 27.

Members of the Americanization committee who appeared before the board of education last night were: Markel, Judge Scovel and Fred Crowell.

SCHOOL BOARD CHANGES IN REQUESTED TO TENURE LAW FINANCE CLINIC ARE SUGGESTED

Suggestion that the Santa Ana board of education operate a clinic for Mexican mothers under the adult education program was turned down last night at the board meeting on the grounds that operation of such a clinic is a matter for the health department and not the school system.

It had been suggested that the clinic could be operated until April at a total cost of $75. It was pointed out that the county health department conducts a similar clinic for American mothers but the county budget cannot carry the cost of a similar service for Mexican mothers at this time.

W. M. Burke, member of the school board said that while he would not favor operating the clinic this year for economic reasons that he believes teaching children to care for their Mexican mothers is more important than many other things taught in the adult education program.

A request from Mrs. Golden Weston, head of the adult education department for permission to conduct a chorus for members of the Santa Ana Association of Unemployed also was refused for financial reasons. Mrs. Weston had proposed to conduct the chorus in the old Willard school building on North Main street, now being occupied by the unemployed group.

MAKE THREAT OF TAX STRIKE OR RECALL

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 23.—Threatening a tax strike and recall of public officials, 300 taxpayers of San Bernardino county yesterday afternoon at a public meeting voiced demands for a 25 per cent reduction in taxes for the fiscal year 1933-1934.

Arthur Gregory, property owner of Redlands, led the protesting taxpayers, representing every section of the county, who adopted a resolution calling for reductions in the county government by January 1, sufficient for the coming fiscal year. "Falling in this, a recall movement should be directed against all county officials who refuse to cooperate" and all future tax payments should be withheld, the resolution stated. Copies of the resolution will be distributed for signatures by taxpayers.

PLEADS GUILTY AFTER JURY CAN'T AGREE

There is one thing that John Davis, hobo camp resident believes thoroughly in and that's justice.

Davis was in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court yesterday charged with possession of liquor. He pleaded not guilty and a jury heard his story. The jury was out for several hours without being able to reach a verdict, so was discharged.

Two hours later, while the court was trying to determine when the trial would be held again, Davis walked in and pleaded guilty to the charge.

The judge was rather surprised but not enough to keep him from fining Davis $500 with an alternative of spending 30 days in the county jail. Davis went to jail.

Davis was arrested several days ago by Undersheriff C. W. Rickie and Deputy Sheriff Earl Nickles when the officers found a quantity of wine buried in an old trunk several feet under ground in the hobo camp in the Santiago creek bed.

Davis contended the liquor was merely his winter supply.

Dry ice has a temperature of about 114 degrees Fahrenheit below zero.

HOOKS and SLIDES by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

DON-FULLERTON FRAY TOSSUP, BELIEF Cougar Passes Threaten Best Bruin Season

RATE INVADERS FINEST TEAM IN NORTHWEST

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—Two sparkling aerial attacks will be pitted against one another on the Coliseum turf here tomorrow when Washington State college, defeated but once in conference play, opposes the California Bruins, tied with Southern California at the head of conference standings.

Led by George Sander, triple-threat halfback, the Cougars have maintained the best record in the Northwest and a victory over the Bruins would cause them to finish the season in no worse than a tie for second in final standings.

Coach "Babe" Hollingbery's squad is hoping for dry turf to unleash the aerial game which has been smothered by bad weather in every start since their opening game with Southern California here.

The Bruins, defending their spectacular rise from the bottom to the top of the league in one season, will probably be in tip-top physical condition. It will be the first time this year that Coach Bill Spaulding has been able to marshal his full crew for any one game.

The W. S. C. U. C. L. A. contest and the Southern California-Washington battle at Seattle wind up the conference season for all teams but the Huskies and Bruins, who meet here in the first encounter in their history Dec. 3.

Gonzaga at University of Montana and Stanford at Pittsburgh on Saturday, the Southern California-Notre Dame clash here Dec. 10, Georgia Tech at California and the Bruin-Florida fracas at Gainesville, Fla., Dec. 17, draw the curtain on the far-west's football activities for the year.

PRO ELEEVENS HOLD OWN IN DEPRESSION

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 23.—(UP)—While college football has been taking it on the chin as far as attendance and gate receipts are concerned, organized professional football has strengthened itself during the 1932 season. Joseph P. Carr, president of the National Football league and "father" of pro football, told the United Press today.

The eight clubs of the National league still have three weeks before their season closes, but Carr believes attendance figures will equal or better those of 1931, the banner year for professional football.

According to Carr, interest in professional football has taken a decided upward trend during the present season while most colleges and universities were battling in difference on the part of fans.

THREE IRISH STARS OUT OF ARMY GAME
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Three Notre Dame regulars today appeared to be out of the Notre Dame game at New York Saturday.

Jim Harris, guard, and George Melnikovich, fullback who is leading the team in ground gaining and scoring, are in the infirmary with influenza and Ray Brancheau, right fullback, is still nursing injuries received in the Navy game.

Harry Wunsach has replaced Harris at guard, and Jim Leonard and Steve Bonas are alternating at fullback. Joe Sheeketski, who scored both touchdowns against Navy, probably will play in Brancheau's place.

Two St. Mary's Players Check In Suits

MORAGA, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Unless the faculty committee reinstates them today, Angel Brovelli, star fullback, and Mike Steponovich, perhaps the best guard on the Pacific Coast, will not appear in the St. Mary's lineup against Oregon at Kezar stadium in San Francisco tomorrow.

The two players have been dismissed from the Gael football squad for breaches of discipline, Coach "Slip" Madigan announced. The incident leading to the dismissal of the men, it was said, was their failure to return from the U. C. L. A. game at Los Angeles recently with the team. They missed the train and arrived here a day late.

Charley Baird, left halfback, and Garry Vivaldi, an end, also were summoned before the faculty committee for misconduct. They offered satisfactory excuses, however, and were reinstated.

A. A. U. ADOPTS METRE SYSTEM MEASUREMENT

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—(UP)—The Amateur Athletic union which, we believe, is the oldest and largest American amateur sports governing body, has finally got around to adopting the metric system of measurement for all its track and field events.

The new measure will go in effect January 1, 1933. It should have been in operation since 1923, the year it was first proposed. Just why the A. A. U. were so long in seeing the light is not quite clear. Some say they were held back by patriotism; that they just couldn't bear to see the United States give in to all the other nations which used the metric system.

Others argue that the erroneous belief that a switch from yards and inches to metres would spoil American tracks and call for a wholesale change in layouts was the cause of the long delay.

This probably comes close to being the real reason, for only yesterday, when the change was brought before the National body, Mr. Fred Steers of Chicago, a man who knows the ins-and-outs and whereof of track and field, rose to his feet and told the delegates the adoption of the metric business would "ruin most of this country's tracks."

Steers, as well as the others who believed as he did, were shown they were wrong by A. C. Gilbert, the millionaire toy manufacturer, Olympic vaulting champion of 1908, and the adoption of metric track and field followed in these United States. Gilbert pointed out that by the mere shifting of the start of a standard race a yard or two either way any metric district could be substituted for any yardage of the course.

Separates Start, Finish
Moreover, Gilbert pointed out that in shorter races like the 400 metres, the substitution of the metric measure would really be an advantage in that it would place the starting pits well in advance of the finish line.

The A. A. U. probably saw the light on the metric business at the last Olympic Games when Bill Carr and Eddie Tolan gained international recognition by smothering records in metres instead of yards and inches. Had Tolan and Carr smashed records in yards and inches the world would have paid little attention, because America and England are the only countries that deal in these terms.

The I. C. A. A. A. also will begin the use of the metric system the first of the year. At its last meeting the college body agreed to make the change the moment it was passed by the A. A. U. This puts Great Britain on the spot, so to speak, and it would not be at all surprising if that country beat a hasty retreat and got in step with the rest of the world.

The rule governing the finish of a race was altered when it was decided that the race shall be finished when a runner breathes the tape rather than when his torso crosses the finish line.

Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette, the 100-meter won by Eddie Tolan of Detroit, and would have given a tie to Evelyn Hall of Chicago in her Olympic 60-meter hurdle race won by "Babe" Didrikson.

UNADVERTISED FIGHT THRILLS DELHI CROWD

Nat Mills and Neal Foster, a couple of fighters who weren't even in the program, created more excitement than all the advertised participants put together at the Orange County Athletic club last night.

Scheduled to meet in next Tuesday's main event, Mills and Foster tangled in an impromptu match while they were being introduced to the crowd just prior to the Bob Metzler-Tony Lee windup which Lee won by a technical knockout in the second round.

After being introduced, Mills walked across the ring and attempted to shake hands with Foster who struck away Mills' mitt to the chorus of many boos. Mills' reply was a stiff punch at Foster's jaw and in a jiffy the boys were mixing it freely. Matchmaker Kid Mexico and his entire staff crawled into the ring to stop the unadvertised melee.

Phony or not, the scuffle was good publicity for the Mills-Foster battle next week.

Lee's victory over Metzler in the regular main event was a technical proposition, Referee Frank Holbro stopping the affair in the second round after Metzler's right eye had been badly cut by one of Lee's stinging blows. Metzler protested Holbro's action vigorously. It was an even match until the disqualification, and a rematch would not be out of order.

The highly touted semi-windup between Eddie Pruitt and Homer Foster, both colored, was a dud. The men were obviously clever and capable but their efforts were largely confined to defensive work. Joe Disch decided on Doyle Richards, Santa Ana 158-pounder, Al Monaco beat Ed Orosco, Santa Ana, in three rounds. Alex Vanzuela outpointed Ray Reyes in three. John Villalobos, Delhi, stopped Ray Torres, Santa Ana, in the second round of the eye-opener.

MICHIGAN HAS INSIDE TRACK TO JAN. 1 GAME

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—(UP)—A few opinions, observations and notes on the football season: Michigan and Southern California will meet in the Tournament of Roses game New Year's Day if the Big Ten lifts its ban on post-season games. . . . Michigan wants the game and will receive the invitation if the Big Ten gives its permission. . . . The Big Ten hasn't sent a team to Pasadena since Ohio State was walloped 28-0, in 1920. . . . Michigan isn't a great team, but you can lay odds that if it does go west there won't be any four touchdowns scored on it.

The All-American Literary club now is composed of Red Grange, Benny Friedman, Jerry Dalrymple, Johnny Baker, Barry Wood and Marchmont Schwartz. . . . Schw is the latest addition with his "All-American Recants". . . . They all belittle the All-American idea out as yet, none of them has advocated abolishing it.

Notre Dame's best play this season is a lateral pass, as Army's wings are going to find out Saturday. . . . Kurth and Krause, the big Notre Dame tackles, are going to give Army's speedy backs plenty of punishment.

"Pop" Warner hasn't lost an inter-sectional game since the "Four Horsemen" galloped to a 27-10 victory over Stanford in the Rose Bowl in 1924, and that record won't be marred when Stanford faces Pitt Saturday at Pittsburgh.

Ralph Kerecheval, Kentucky, is one of the best punters in the land. . . . His greatest kick was made in high school when he stood on his own 20 yard line, and hit the cross bars, which at that time were on the goal line.

One rumor has it that football will be gradually played down at Chicago university under the new regime in favor of intramural sports.

Dr. Clarence Spears, Wisconsin coach, didn't scrimmage the Wisconsin team after the season opened and had his players in perfect physical shape throughout the season.

OREGON STATERS IN TUSSLE AT DETROIT

DETROIT, Nov. 23.—(UP)—The football curtain will be rung down in Michigan tomorrow when the University of Detroit eleven plays Oregon State at Dtnan field. . . . Both teams were scheduled for light practice sessions today.

HUSKIES FINAL BAR TO TROJAN CHAMPIONSHIP

SEATTLE, Nov. 23.—(UP)—University of Southern California's unbeaten Trojans face their last obstacle to another Pacific Coast conference championship here tomorrow when they meet the University of Washington's strong eleven.

If advance predictions are fulfilled the meeting of the Huskies and Trojans will be no mild pulling of the wishbone. Fully aware of the prestige to be gained by a victory over the 1931 National champions, Coach Jimmy Phelan carefully prepared his squad for the power attack Troy will present with its 200-pound per man line.

The heavy Trojan line probably offers the biggest problem for Washington overcome. When the Trojan line feels the shadow of its own goal posts on its back it can produce a resistance that has been penetrated but once this season. The honor for that lone trip across Southern California's goal goes to Columbia.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Baby Arizmendi, who aspires to the world's featherweight championship, showed little championship ability last night when he was held to a draw by Varlas Milling, California state champion, in a 10-round bout at Olympia auditorium. The fight was a listless affair.

BELL TO START AT QUARTER IN COOK'S LINEUP

Renewing their struggle for Orange county supremacy, Santa Ana and Fullerton junior colleges play their annual "big" game at Fullerton tomorrow, and bring to a close their 1932 Orange Empire conference football schedules.

When the curtain is lifted on the Thanksgiving day drama at 2:30, Coaches Bill Cook and Art Nunn of the rivals will send into action their strongest possible combinations. Injuries slightly handicap both squads. The outcome is considered strictly a tossup.

Only once in five years have the Dons defeated Fullerton, and that was in 1929, when a short pass over the goal after the gun had wounded gave Santa Ana a 19 to 13 victory and the Southern California junior college championship. The county rivals battled to a 13-13 deadlock at Fullerton in 1930. The records:

1927—Santa Ana 0, Fullerton 6.
1929—Santa Ana 0, Fullerton 20.
1929—Santa Ana 19, Fullerton 13.
1930—Santa Ana 13, Fullerton 13.
1931—Santa Ana 12, Fullerton 19.

The Dons were dealt a hard blow in practice yesterday when Paul Jungkeit, halfback, wrenched his knee and was declared through with 1932 football. Working in the first string backfield all week, Jungkeit was prepared to start at inside half in order that Fred ("Porky") Bell, regular, could be shifted to quarterback against Fullerton.

Figuring that his offensive strength will be greater, Coach Cook still plans to leave Bell at safety, provided Captain Jack Fredericks, recovering from rib injuries, is in condition to start at inside half. With Bill Bouldin, regular, out with an injured ankle, Bell is needed most at quarter. If Fredericks is unable to fill the halfback position, it is probable that Hideo Higashi will be shifted from right to left half, and Bill Campbell, fleet 135-pounder, placed at Higashi's regular post. Another possible change would find LeRoy DeSmet, running guard, at left half, with "Swede" Williams, guard, backing up the line on defense.

There is no question about who will start at fullback. Wally Smith, whose general all-around brilliance has made him a star in past games, will team with Bell, Fredericks and Higashi.

Tom Carlyle and "Tex" Harris, ends; Lucius Conkey and "Bono" Koral, tackles; Dick Heffern and Claude Williams, guards; and "Gib" Meisinger, center, will be Santa Ana's starting linemen.

Two hard-running backs and a strong forward wall. That is what Fullerton is banking on tomorrow. Elmer Pryor, who led the Coast Preparatory league in scoring last year, is one of the fastest quarterbacks in the conference, and Leeson Pomeroy is another backfield threat.

Outstanding in the Fullerton line are Lloyd Bishop, 165-pound end; Bruce Broadwell, 265-pound tackle;

YORBA LINDA, Nov. 23.—Mrs. E. N. Whittle, former instructor in a school of Turkey, talked on education of women in Turkey at the Yorba Linda Woman's club yesterday afternoon, expressing the idea that if traditional ideas, and if the nation that Turkey is like it was years ago are discarded, and the country is viewed in the light of the marvelous advancement made in the past few years, the admiration of the nations would prevail for the enormous gains made.

She told of work among the women and girls in education, and of visiting many kinds of schools for girls.

LEPER COLONY EXPERIENCES TOLD AT MEET

MIDWAY CITY, Nov. 23.—An unusually interesting address was on the program of the annual prayer and praise service of the Presbyterian Missionary society, held Sunday evening at the local church, the Rev. Paul Frederick Jansen of the Philippine leper colony giving his experiences in the work on the island where he has worked as a missionary for 30 years.

Mr. Jansen told in detail of the treatment given for the lepers and the wonderful outcome of the chemothra treatment which is given until no symptoms of the disease are to be found. They are then segregated from others and given another treatment for two years at which time they are dismissed and returned to their homes if no further symptoms are shown, he said.

The speaker related that the life of a leper after being cured, appears as though it is not the effect of the disease that is thought to have this effect as much as the need of friends, which is practically denied the patient even after they are declared as cured, the fear of the disease is so great among the natives. Many of the cured lepers ask to be returned to the Leper Island where they would prefer to remain on account of the companionship which is possible there, according to Jansen.

CHURCH WOMEN SOCIETY THE HOME WEDDINGS FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD

Guests Select Special Gifts for Honoree At Bridge Tea

An especially pleasant affair of recent date for which Mrs. Gail Jordan, 1717 North Main street, opened her home, was the afternoon bridge at which Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Melvin Salvason of Fullerton joined to compliment Mrs. A. A. Arnold of Fullerton.

Quantities of baby chrysanthemums were employed by the hostesses in developing a colorful autumnal theme of golden tones ranging from pale lemon yellow to deep and glowing orange. Amidst the many flowers were arranged tables for bridge. Tally cards harmonizing with the decorative theme indicated table places for the guests.

When the game series was concluded Mrs. Arnold, holder of high score; Mrs. Gerald Young, second; and Mrs. Lewis Edwards, low, had the pleasure of receiving the prize awards, all wrapped in pale yellow tissue and tied with golden brown ribbons.

In addition to winning the bridge prize, Mrs. Arnold was delighted at receiving a quaintly charming "Moses basket" prepared for her by Mrs. Jordan, whose gift to her it was, and which in turn was completely filled with daintily wrapped gifts for the layette she is preparing.

For the refreshment hour with which Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Salvason brought their hospitality to a close, they arranged the card tables with snowy linens and chrysanthemums in keeping with the general decorative scheme of the afternoon.

Their guests included in addition to the honoree, Mrs. Arnold, Mesdames Norman Richards, Robert Dowling, F. D. Collins, Harold Kelly, Carl Connor, Oscar Schneider, A. W. ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

Children Like Jam Cake
Who doesn't like a spicy, moist dark cake, especially in cold weather? If the same cake were offered in summer it would go begging, but when the wind whistles 'round the corner of the house, it's different. The one I am giving you today has everything a dark cake should have. I hope you'll like it.

JAM CAKE
1 cup sugar
2/3 cup butter
2 eggs
1 cup jam
1 level teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon each allspice, cinnamon and nutmeg
1-1/2 cups flour
The first thing you'll say to yourself when you read the recipe is, "Ann has forgotten the milk." But I haven't, the jam and eggs supply that liquid this cake needs.

First, measure out the cup-and-a-half of flour and sift it. To the sifted flour add the soda and sift twice. Set that aside for the moment while the sugar and butter are creamed.

By the way, good bacon fat might be used to replace butter, or the same amount of salad oil. In the latter case a little more flour would have to be used, about 1/4 cupful.

Beat the eggs and add to the creamed part, mixing well, then the cup of jam. The spices go in slowly into the creamed part and whip well after everything is in the cake. Bake in a tube cake pan, slow oven (300 degrees) for approximately an hour.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Foamy Pudding Sauce
1 cup powdered sugar
1/2 cup butter
3 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
Separate the yolks from the whites. Beat the yolks to a thick foamy cream and add by degrees to the sugar and butter, which has been previously creamed to a very soft spreading consistency.

The sugar and butter should be softer than for cake, so rinse the mixing bowl with hot water before creaming the butter. Add the sifted powdered sugar, as the creaming of the butter proceeds. It is important that no lumps be left in the sugar, or the butter, either.

The yolks being beaten, the sugar and butter, creamed, put the two together and whip briskly for one minute. Have the whites ready, beaten stiff. Add them, the flavoring also, and whip until the sauce looks like marshmallow whip. Keep chilled until ready to serve.

There are 1530 calories in the sauce, nearly all of them intensive energy-makers. That means ceremonies.

CONTINUOUS SHOWS THANKSGIVING DAY AT FOX THEATERS

Both the Fox West Coast and the Fox Broadway theaters here will run continuous performances in Santa Ana tomorrow—Thanksgiving Day. It was announced today.

The Fox Broadway theater opens a new run tomorrow with Joe E. Brown in "You Said a Mouthful," in which a bashful youth, afraid of water, is seen as a marvellous athlete, and the West Coast theater opens its run of "Sherlock Holmes" with Clive Brook, said by critics to be by far the best Arthur Conan Doyle film yet to be produced.

The Thanksgiving menu at the theaters is particularly attractive due to the fact that both shows are new shows.

'PROSPERITY' ENDS ENGAGEMENT HERE

Final showing of one of the funniest pictures the screen has offered this year, "Prosperity," with Marie Dressler and Polly Moran, will be made at the Fox Broadway theater tonight.

The picture, which opened here last Sunday, has had a big run in Santa Ana, attesting the popularity of the two big laugh stars and because of the timely plot, the excellent acting of both and the screaming funny lines, "Prosperity" will be remembered as an outstanding performance.

'MAN ABOUT TOWN' AT WALKER STATE

Lovers of action, adventure and romance will find an abundance of all three qualities in "Man About Town," the Fox Films feature opening today on the screen of Walker's State theater. With most other plot laid in the secret of service and diplomatic circles of Washington and a brilliant cast headed by Warner Baxter, Karen Morley and Conway Tearle, the picture is said to provide fast-moving drama and plenty of thrills.

Two men in love with the same girl, and their long friendship turned to hatred as a consequence, provide the motif of the plot. Leni Stengel, Lawrence Grant, Alan Mowbray and other favorites are among the supporting players.

PRISON PICTURE AT WEST COAST ENDS

Santa Anans have only today left to see "I Am A Fugitive from a Chain Gang," featuring Paul (Scarface) Muni.

The unusual picture, which has been showing at the Fox West Coast theater since Monday, has proved a sensation. An unusual picture in every way, it is a trade against alleged present prison conditions in some United States prison camps.

COMMITTEE IS APPOINTED TO STUDY TRADE

ORANGE, Nov. 23.—The investigation of a trade of properties belonging to the city and the Consolidated Rock company was referred to the street committee, when the Orange city council met yesterday at a meeting called to consider the proposition. The street committee includes Councilmen A. H. Helm and C. J. Hessel.

The rock company proposed the trade on November 1 through the manager of the concern, O. V. Barkman of Los Angeles. Mayor Clyde A. Watson said that he believed that there was a possibility of obtaining additional rent of $4000 from the lease of the gravel land on East Chapman avenue and that this should be considered in the terms of the trade. The rock company's land is on South Glassell street and contains 17 acres while the city's land which would be involved in the trade contains six and seven-tenths acres.

It was brought out that the South Glassell street land would be more valuable to the city as in time a ball park or recreation park might be established at this location. At the time the land was leased Kavanagh and Twihl were the owners of the company which later became the Consolidated Rock company.

It was brought out that the land on East Chapman avenue was leased for 10 years by the rock company in 1926. The firm removed $11,000 worth of gravel or 110,000 cubic yards up to February, 1927, when the flood of that year stopped operations. No gravel has been removed since. C. C. Bonebrake, city street superintendent, stated, and he believed, he said, that about the same amount remained in the bed as had been removed.

CLOTHING NEEDED FOR ORANGE NEEDY

ORANGE, Nov. 23.—The Orange Community Welfare board will meet Friday noon at the American Legion clubhouse. The meeting is an important one as a new president will be elected to serve the remainder of the year and plans for Christmas work will be made.

According to Miss Grace Lentz, welfare worker, the great need at the store at present is for underwear for men, women and children. Men's trousers also are greatly needed, she states.

SPEAKER CLAIMS ALCOHOL WORTHLESS AS MEDICINE; ANTI-BEER RALLY PLANNED

ORANGE, Nov. 23.—Keeping as the keynote of the meeting the words of their national president, Mrs. Ella Boole, "The battle is lost but the war is still on," members of the Orange W. C. T. U. met yesterday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church for their first meeting since election day.

Mrs. Pearl Kendall Hess of Orange, national W. C. T. U. worker, was speaker of the day, discussing "Medical Temperance." She stated that "The distance we are from the starting point, not the goal, is the measure of success." Total abstinence was required of W. C. T. U. members when it was found that "physicians' prescription were adding to the ranks of steady drinkers, and that the whiskey thus prescribed offered only temporary relief and not a cure, Mrs. Hess brought out.

The progress along this line has been great, she stated, for in the 16th century, it was the medical opinion that among other things, alcohol helped digestion, cut phlegm, etc. In the middle of the 19th century, science gave out the theory that alcohol is a stimulant and a food, and in later years, science has reversed the opinion, she said.

During the business session, in charge of the president, Mrs. Minnie Neville, plans were made for a day of prayer to be observed by the union Monday, December 5 in the Presbyterian church and for an anti-beer rally to be held on Sunday, December 4. Plans for the rally are to be completed later, as this time is to be devoted to preparing protests for congress against legalizing beer. All unions throughout the nation are to observe these two days.

Those named to take charge of prayer meetings December 5, from 10 to 12 in the morning and 2 to 4 in the afternoon, were Mesdames Sarah Myers, Flora Ralph, Mary Gross and Minnie Neville.

Announcement was made that the county W. C. T. U. executive board is to meet all day Friday, December 2 in the First Methodist church of Garden Grove, beginning at 10 a. m. Luncheon is to be served at noon. The meeting is open to all members of the union.

Mrs. Clara Sumner, evangelistic director, conducted devotionals from Psalms, on "Thanksgiving," and Mrs. George Cheeseman led in prayer. Group singing was led by Mrs. F. B. Schanz, who also gave a vocal solo, with Mrs. Ida Putnam accompanying at the piano.

In giving her talk, Mrs. Hess quoted various men of note, including Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, who said, "There is no necessity for prescriptions of alcohol in medical practice." The speaker continued to say that the statements that beer is healthy are propaganda. The German association of Neurologists and Psychiatrists made the statement that "This association considers any claim that beer is healthful by its content of calories an attempt to mislead the public," she said.

Mrs. Hess brought out that foreign countries are in readiness for their onrush of business when prohibition is repealed in the United States. She read a newspaper article sent from Paris stating that the American Chamber of Commerce of Paris had inquired into exporting of Parisian wines, and had appointed a special committee to act in the interests of Franco-American trade. "The liquor dealers of the world are ready to cash in on the threat they made against prohibition at a meeting held in 1922," the speaker said.

She quoted Mrs. Boole as saying that "The W. C. T. U. must study the plans of distillers, wine producers and brewers of other countries in carrying on its battle."

Joan Campbell, Mrs. Louise Biddingsmeyer and Mrs. Dolores Goodwin.

Miss Evelyn Barnes, North Leona street, spent the week end in Brea with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Barnes. Stanley V. Mansur has been quite seriously ill at his home at 537 North Pine street, and though improving in health is still confined to his bed.

Mrs. Sherman Gillogly returned this week from Los Angeles where she has been attending a school of instruction for Eastern Star officers. Mrs. Gillogly was recently elected district deputy grand matron. Since her return she has been quite ill with pneumonia poisoning.

Recent visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Browne, North Tustin street, were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whipple of Fontana and Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Courtney of Upland.

Miss Thelma Frerking, a teacher in the San Marino schools, was a recent guest in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Frerking.

Mrs. J. C. Crawford, 288 North Olive street, returned home this week from a six months stay in Pennsylvania.

Christmas club members are holding no meeting this month, postponing it until Friday, December 9, when a Christmas party will be held in the home of Mrs. E. J. Browne.

Miss Myrtle Shaffer, desk sergeant at the city hall, returned to her duties this week after a week's absence owing to illness. Mrs. Wilma Barger acted as desk sergeant during her absence.

Members of the Orange Women's Relief corps who were in Santa Ana today (Wednesday) attending a luncheon and inspection of Santa Ana W. R. C. were Mesdames Lucy Robinson, Carrie Lewis, Gladys McDonald, Euphemia Ralls and Florence Merriman.

CITY COUNCIL ASKED TO PAY $20,000 BALM

ORANGE, Nov. 23.—Damages of $20,000 were asked of the city of Orange by Mrs. Emma J. Brown, 1026 West Sixth street, Santa Ana, who asserted in a claim filed with City Clerk T. H. Eljah, that she was severely injured August 12, 1932, when riding in a car across a dip at the intersection of Cypress and Maple streets.

Mrs. Brown asked damages for a compression fracture of the lumbar vertebrae, bruises and nervous shock which she claims she suffered as a result of crossing the dip. The city council referred the matter to the city attorney with instructions to investigate the claim. It is understood that Mrs. Brown was not driving the car herself.

Two offers were made the city to sell property adjacent to the waterworks. Each piece of property consists of a house and lot, only the lot being offered for sale in each case and the same price, $900. One lot is owned by A. F. Lankford, 161 Water street, and lies north of the water works and the other by Mrs. Annie Stark, is on the east of the plant. The offers were referred to the fire and water committee.

ORANGE, Nov. 23.—Thanksgiving day will be observed here by the closing of schools, city offices, banks and the public library. A school vacation will extend until Monday morning. The regular meeting of the Rotary club which is held on Thursday has been canceled.

CHORUS PLANS TO GIVE SONG PROGRAM SOON

ORANGE, Nov. 23.—Possibilities of a similar program to be given at the Orange Woman's clubhouse, followed the successful reception of the program given Monday by the club chorus. The professional staging of the program, together with well directed choruses and the quality of the voices in solo and trio parts, placed the entertainment above the usual program of the sort.

Last year the chorus gave a Colonial program and yesterday Negro music was featured. An interested member of the audience was Mrs. Helen LeBlond, one of the first members of the chorus when organized many years ago. Mrs. LeBlond is now 83 years of age and it was her first visit to the clubhouse for some years.

The next meeting of the club will be held December 5 with Virginia Cole Pritchard as the speaker of the afternoon. Mrs. Pritchard will review a group of late books.

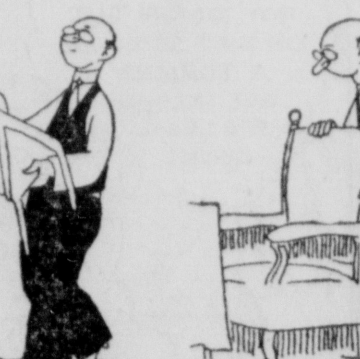

Members of the chorus presenting yesterday's program were Mrs. Walter Kogler, Mrs. Stearns, Mrs. Frank Palmer, Mrs. W. C. Ahlman, Mrs. David G. Wetlin, Mrs. Frank Collins, Mrs. John Hirst, Mrs. Essie J. Sutherland, Mrs. Ed Pullerton, Mrs. Ethel Clark, Miss Sue Scarritt, Mrs. Horace Newman, Mrs. Horace Newman, Mrs. Will Rohrs, of Los Angeles, Mrs. Noral Evans, Mrs. Leon Des Larzes and Mrs. Margaret Ockles.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

The little squirrels danced paw in paw and Scouty said, "I never saw a dance as cute as that one. Way, their rhythm is just right."

"They both are swaying to and fro as through their clever steps they go. I love to sit and watch it. It's an interesting sight."

The mother squirrel then said, "Well, you can shortly learn just how to do the dance that they are doing. I will teach you all right now."

"Your four lads line up in a row and every step you'll shortly know. We'll put a little show on for my squirrels, when you know how."

The Tinymites agreed to this, all hoping naught would go amiss. They lined up and the mother squirrel exclaimed, "Now start to sway."

"First to the left, then to the right. Ah, fine! Your dance is quite a sight." "It's easy," shouted Duncy. "I could dance like this all day."

All of a sudden, in the air, brown leaves were blowing everywhere. A real strong breeze had picked up and it whistled through the trees.

"Come, baby squirrels," the mother cried. "Inside our tree home we must hide. I fear that you will catch a cold and then you'll start to sneeze."

The squirrels then disappeared from sight, and frightened Duncy Tinymite exclaimed, "Where can we run so we can get out of this storm?"

"The wind gets colder as it blows. I fear that it will freeze my nose. I wish that we could find a place to hide where it is warm."

Just then they heard a swishing sound and as the whole band looked around they saw a great big maple leaf. It gave them quite a scare.

It was too late now to retreat. The leaf picked them right off their feet. In just about a sec-

WHY THEY GET ON OUR NERVES

By Donald A. Laird, Ph.D.
Director, Colgate University Psychological Laboratory

HAVE you ever stopped to think why you dislike certain people? Or why they may dislike you?

This question came up recently among the students at the Psychological Laboratory of Colgate University. The realization that among their number were fellows looked up to but not liked, others almost universally liked, and a few heartily disliked, crystallized into a research which uncovered information of exceptional value for everyone, whether student or professor, business or professional man, executive or subordinate.

One very telling point was established almost at the outset. The 130 men who took part in the experiments were asked at a given signal to begin writing down as speedily as possible the initials of all persons they particularly disliked. Half a minute later, this listing of dislikes was as suddenly stopped.

Many of the listeners had not been able to think of more than one individual they disliked; others consumed the time at top speed and still had not exhausted their pet aversion. Certain of them had noted 141. Later it developed—and here was the vital thing—that those most given to minor hates were themselves the most unpopular.

Also, the conviction was soon forced upon us that the explanation of human likes and dislikes for other humans lay almost wholly in the actions of those other humans; first, in actions that tend to strike at our pride and opinion of ourselves, and second, in acts that irritate, disturb and distress us.

BUT, after all, these generalizations did not tell specifically why persons were disliked. Again, the students were asked to write, each to portray some person he regarded with repugnance, with emphasis upon unlike traits of character, personality or conduct.

Sisters, fraternity brothers, landlords, and landladies, all between 16 and 60, were the subjects of these articles. (There was sound reason to hold, before the experiments ended, that some of the "landlords" and "landladies" were parents of the writers!)

Leaving out of consideration unnatural traits which could have no general significance in this problem of likes and dislikes, such for example as stuttering, we found 91 traits, of a type that could be considered universal, that appeared with relative frequency.

Here then was a good starting point—here were "dislike traits" that had every chance of being resented by great numbers of persons. So again we had each of the men produce a study of a second person disliked, but this time confining the picture to the 91 aversion causes culled from the previous articles.

Then we had them do a third study, this time of a person they liked very much—sweethearts excluded, in all fairness—with relation to the same 91 traits. The group was deeply interested, as you may imagine, and the whole program was carried out with rigorous and scientific honesty.

THE next step was a comparison of the 130 well-liked persons as a group with the 130 disliked subjects. How many in the last, and how many in the first group possessed one or more of the 91 "dislike traits"? In other words, how true were these traits as universal indicators as to whether an individual afflicted with them was apt to be liked or disliked?

We found, by the use of appropriate mathematical deductions, that there were, on the basis of this research, 45 traits in which the chances are only one in 740, at least, that they will not prove, in any given case, sound and inevitable causes of dislike. That is, if you possess one or more of them the chances are at least 740 to one that as a rule you will be disliked rather than liked by people you meet.

Individuals knowing favorable traits about you may overlook them; but on the other hand strangers, new acquaintances and the like may not—indeed, probably will not.

On the basis of our previous generalizations, these 45 traits divided themselves into three groups, in the order of their importance, as is shown graphically by the personal test chart displayed elsewhere on this page. And while, under the mathematics of probabilities, the chances in each case were at least 740 to one that a trait would be generally a dislike starter, it was found that for those traits in Group 1, the chances of their being dislike breeders were around 1,000,000 to one!

INCIDENTALLY, the personal test chart will permit anyone to obtain a self portrait as far as the possession of "like" and "dislike" traits are concerned. As you see, the questions are couched in such form that the answer "Yes" indicates the absence of the aversionproducing trait.

The score is made by giving yourself a count of three for each "Yes" in the first group, a count of two for each affirmative answer in the second, and of one for each such reply in the third, or least important.

Seventy-nine is top card and the experiments have shown that only about 10 per cent of humans can honestly obtain it. Low is 56, while 64 is average for young folks.

But you will note that each of these traits, important as they are, can be changed by the individual; that all can, with care and determination, be eliminated. That, as I see it, is what makes the test of supreme value to everyone, especially to persons engaged in making each day the contacts—the friendly contacts upon which good business and success depend.

Now, examine some of these traits by way of illustration. Look at the first question, which asks, "Do you always do as you promise?" No doubt everyone has met persons who at first seemed charming and likable, but who never lived up to their promises, and were usually making excuses for some dereliction in this regard. In the business world, this trait is sure to lead to trouble.

Equally related to the business side of life is the hint in Question 9, "Do you avoid making fun of others behind their backs?" The other day, in connection with other work in psychology, I ran across a "bull's-eye" example of how this trait—that of making fun of others behind their backs—may shatter a man's friendships and his business success as well.

THE man in question was far above the average in competence, training and personality. He was, too, a genuinely hard worker, with a stellar record as an executive. An offer came for him to assume charge of a manufacturing business in a western city.

The salary was attractive, along with other conditional awards, and he accepted at once. His new employers were as tickled as he because they felt they had put over a "ten strike" in the personnel phase of their business.

But in a short time the whole transaction took on the guise of a blunder. The new executive was disliked by his staff.

This more or less mysterious situation had disrupted the general morale and cut down the profits; something had to be done. Now, oddly enough, it was the new man who finally terreted out the "nigger in the woodpile."

It all traced back, he saw, to his old love of making fun of folks behind their backs. He had considerable histrionic talent, and greatly enjoyed telling tales, about this fellow's wild explosion after a weird golf shot, or that one's discomfiture on being caught in an office mistake. It had killed his popularity.

Have you ever stopped to think why people may dislike you?

illustration of the traits suggested in the other two groups, which may be said to come more under the heading of irksome, disturbing and distressing things—is the experience of a Colgate man who took the test.

His was, he admitted, the lowest score of the entire 130. In addition to that he was, on the revelations of his fellows, the most disliked among them.

THIS was all the more astonishing because he might well have seemed, on a superficial survey, to have been one of the most popular.

Do you avoid exaggeration in all your statements?

SEVERAL of the traits set down in the first group on the chart might well be given especial consideration by men and women in executive posts.

For these folks must continue to display knowledge; they must give orders; they must criticize. And unless they do all these things with fine social understanding, and compensate for the necessity of doing them by showing many other attractive qualities, they are liable to fall heir to much more or less unmerited dislike.

For all these duties tend, in operation, to "take down" the other fellow's opinion of himself. And that, I am certain, is basically one of the chief reasons why the younger generation develops so often an aversion for the older; why the subordinate so often grouches secretly against his chief; and why the student sometimes dislikes the professor.

On the other side of the picture—that is, the

He had looks and bearing, plenty of money and clothes, was a fine athlete, could make "the piano talk," and came of good family.

Why, then, was he so unpopular? As the chart showed he was forever showing off. He had the offensive habit of mentioning common table articles by their chemical names, as though he alone knew these. He seldom, if ever, did the other fellow a favor, but thought nothing of requesting others to go out of their way to do favors for him.

He was, too, an unconscionable borrower, especially of cigars. Shades of Questions 2, 5, 17, 30 and 40!

Yet it speaks volumes for the man and the test that, once he had secured an honest picture of himself as others viewed him, he managed to correct his faults to such an extent that his case became a laboratory byword. He was a new man!

COUNCIL FILES UNION CHURCH PETITIONS FOR SERVICE TO BE LIQUOR PERMIT HELD THURSDAY

ANAHEIM, Nov. 23.—With several petitions already filed with the city council to become wholesale or retail liquor establishments last night at the regular session and were filed according to a vote taken by the council. Further consideration will be given them. Mayor Fred Koeel presided.

The two business establishments who entered petitions were Funk's confectionery store who expressed a wish to sell intoxicating liquors providing the city ordinance against such a sale should be withdrawn. This would make it a retail house while the Anaheim Bottling Works petitioned to wholesale liquor at the present establishment, providing the city ordinance be withdrawn.

Dr. Asher Wallace, one of the two police doctors, made an offer by letter last night to the council to adopt his service plan, whereby a flat rate of $35 per month would be paid him for doing all work, supplies to be extra at the regular price. This would mean that Dr. Wallace would be the only police doctor in the city and if his plan is adopted will probably mean a considerable saving to the city. The matter is being given a thorough investigation.

Dr. Wallace also provides that if he is unavailable at any time the expenses for another doctor shall be deducted from his monthly salary.

BLAZE DISCOVERED BY ANAHEIM COUPLE

ANAHEIM, November 23.—Owen Steen of Anaheim and L. V. Steen of Placentia were two of the three men who discovered the forest fire that began yesterday in Poppy Valley near Irdlyville and that has now spread over a range of 37,000 acres.

The two Orange county men were visiting the caretaker of the luxurious mountain lodge belonging to Warren Baxter, movie actor, and Judge Sheldon of the superior court in Los Angeles. The lodge was saved after three hours of strenuous fire fighting when they at the fire was changed.

COACH TAKES AT PLACENTIA BOOSTER MEET

PLACENTIA, Nov. 23.—"Clean living, wise use of leisure time, learning to give and take and obedience to rules and laws, and learning to follow as well as lead are some of the chief character training points developed by football players and other school sports." Don Cruickshank, coach of Fullerton high school first team, said in a talk at Placentia Chamber of Commerce meeting yesterday noon.

He declared that if he could find any other plan for better training in life than athletics he would make an effort to teach in that line.

Considering the game as training, Cruickshank said he deplored the type of official at a game who refused to keep head up, and to stop rough play, and that he trained his boys that "if you have to resort to dirty tactics in the game to win, you are a little worse than the other fellow that has sinned you to it."

Cruickshank referred to the game between Santa Ana and Fullerton high schools last Saturday at Santa Ana, and declared that the reason so many players were hurt was lack of watchfulness on the part of the officials, and that when football is dirty it is not the fault of the team, it is the fault of either the coach, who doesn't train in clean sport, or of the officials, and remarked that officials who cannot keep his head up, and prevent dirty playing, will never get to work another game for me.

A turkey dinner was served the large group of guests and members. Other parts of the program included a group of songs by the boys' chorus of the grammar school directed by Miss Lily Hansen and with Mrs. Gladys Kiolstad at the piano.

Assemblyman Ted Craig thanked those present for the support Placentia gave in re-electing him at the polls November 8. Ralph McFadden, member of the chamber, and newly elected president of Orange County Farm Bureau, and Mrs. McFadden, and Leo Roy, newly elected supervisor of third district, and Mrs. Roy were introduced.

Orange County secretary of North Orange county Y.M.C.A., talked a few minutes on the great need to continue the work among boys, especially now when the depression is on.

Introduced by Mrs. Nellie Cline, Ed Backus sang a group of popular songs, with Mrs. Kendrick accompanying at the piano. McFadden said there is need of officials getting behind a move, to get Leon Whitsett, Orange, at present a member of the state railroad commission, re-appointed by Governor Rolph. He said Whitsett is the only appointee now serving who was appointed under the regime of Governor Richardson, and that he is efficient, and that since Governor Rolph places more weight on names than he does on ability of men he appoints, and since Whitsett is able, we want to assist him in his re-appointment.

Archie Bailey, secretary of the work begun last winter of serving soup and milk to undernourished children in the elementary schools, the Parent-Teacher association has again arranged to distribute soup at four of the schools. A nominal charge of five cents is being placed on each bowl of soup.

The soup is being prepared in the Fremont school cafeteria and is being distributed to the Horace Mann, Broadway, Lincoln and Washington schools by means of large thermos containers.

Between 45 and 50 children are being served and the number is expected to increase to approximately 100.

Falling short on the $500 drive, tables were placed in the post office in addition to the S. Q. R. store and the H. N. White Hardware store to receive subscriptions for membership.

A house to house campaign has been conducted during the past few days but the workers received little encouraging response. The business houses will be visited in the next few days.

CURRYING ILL FAVOR

President-elect Roosevelt, as was expected, side-stepped any declaration in respect to war debts which would permit him to be quoted, either by the President, or through a joint utterance of both.

It is well known that the political economists of our own country have pointed out repeatedly, and are almost united in their opinion, that the payment of the war debts should not be insisted upon; and that it would be better for our industrial conditions if they were not. And incidentally, if this would be good economy on the part of the United States, it would be the better part of politics if what was good economy and necessary action would be done graciously, so as to challenge the admiration and establish the good will of the debtor nations.

There is little doubt if the payment be insisted upon, France will pay her portion, Great Britain will do so now, and possibly Italy, but it will be done by engendering an added ill will against our own country, which will probably cost us dearly in the end.

In spite of our idealism, and in spite of the sentiment in our country so great for peace, and for the peaceful means of settling all disputes, the actual factual conditions which confront the United States, upon practically all sides, are not such as to encourage that haughty cocksureness with which the bully swaggers among his mates.

The President of the United States is in a better position to know all the conditions abroad than probably any other man. When President Hoover told Mr. Roosevelt, according to Mr. Roosevelt's statement, if the United States did not make a gesture toward the discussion of international debts that grave consequences might ensue, he was certainly not uttering the words of a jingo, but was talking from the basis of information, such as to which no other single individual in America has access.

There are still people in the world crazy enough to believe that the temporary and apparent prosperity accompanying war has value in profit, both financial and possibly in preventing discontent from boiling over in some unrestrained, dangerous way. These would snap their fingers and say: "Let it come." But we should remember the words of wisdom that fell from the lips of Abraham Lincoln, when, in speaking in Cincinnati, on the borderline between the North and the South, with secession impending, he said, "Can aliens make treaties easier than friends can make laws?"

BRIGADIER-GENERAL GLASSFORD
TAKES UP NEW WORK

Brigadier-General Pelham D. Glassford, who was formerly superintendent of police in Washington city, has been asked to aid a movement to furnish some haven of refuge for the estimated 200,000 youth who are wandering homeless over the United States.

In the depression from which we are beginning, we believe, to emerge, the most disastrous consequences will be felt by the youth of the land. Those who have passed 45 years of age, while they may have suffered greatly, have not had their morale interfered with, as have the young men and women, who, at the very threshold of life, have found that the world apparently does not want them, and has no use for them. And as you go down in the strata, you find that the real sufferers are those, who, in addition to recognizing that the world doesn't want them, find that their homes, if they have homes at all, are so ill supplied with the necessities, as to force them out into the streets and along the highways, to forage with more or less criminal practices, upon the communities through which they pass.

The inspiration of youth as they were preparing for life's work, was the thought that from every point of view, the youth was needed. He anticipated that his contributions of moral and spiritual, as well as physical values, would add to the world's wealth and the world was almost impatient for the trained man or woman.

General Glassford will be doing a work well worth while to address himself to this cause, for next to having something to do, and being prepared to do it, is to know that at least there are men and women in the world who care for your condition, and who are willing in sympathy and helpful attitude to aid you as far as possible.

A PROMISING DEBUT

Last night a gifted daughter of Santa Ana made her local debut before a critical audience of musicians, whose enthusiastic acclaim left no doubt of the sincerity of their belief in the ability, and therefore the future of the young artist, who is Miss Helen Tannenbaum. We believe, and are told on good authority, that the city will some day reflect glory from this gifted violinist.

From time to time Miss Tannenbaum has been heard at various functions in Santa Ana, where her services have been graciously contributed to gladden an occasion, and the story has passed from lip to lip of her long hours of diligent work; of an early alarm which awoke her to several hours of practice before her school day. Those who heard her last night had no doubt of the diligence, for her mastery of the violin has been brought about because of her love for the instrument and her zealous practice.

Miss Tannenbaum's well wishers are legion in Santa Ana. It is a most excellent pleasure to hear her play. It is also gratifying to have some claim on her, even though it is nothing more than to be living in the city, from which she will go forth to charm the country with cadences from her violin.

COL. RAYMOND ROBINS

Those who know Col. Raymond Robins are greatly relieved that his memory has returned to its normal condition. The story of his experience is exceedingly strange. The malady, from which he is supposed to be suffering, certainly does not act in this fragmentary and partial eclipse of memory, as a rule. And so there has been some suspicion that this failure, in certain respects, to recall has not been entirely involuntary.

We cannot believe this to be true. We know Mr. Robins well. We know his fine character, his outstanding ability, his great vision and have been stirred repeatedly by his eloquence. We can conceive of no motive that would prompt any action such as suspicion would point at him, and, after all, we have no more than entered upon the veranda of the study of the mind.

There is absolutely nothing which this noted man could have obtained, and everything which he could have lost, by shamming such a condition.

What this country needs is the sort of resourcefulness shown by the Altona Tribune which offers the news item that battles are coming back and that "old papers are for sale at this office at 10 cents per bundle."

"NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG"
APPRECIATED

The Register has had many compliments for its column, The National Whirligig. The running gossip on important national affairs, together with the occasional gossip on the social and humorous, the readers affirm, make the column not only informing, but interesting and entertaining.

The accuracy of some of the "prophetic" notes in this column show clearly that Paul Mallon and James McMullin contact with the "knowers" and the "doers." It is becoming one of the most valuable features of The Register.

The Big Game
Oakland Tribune

When the Big Game ends with a score of 0-0 there is no satisfaction for those who cry for victory. Yet this year it would seem that an even score meets best the demands for poetic justice. California and Stanford, going through the season, have not done so much as is usual for the glory of this part of the state, but whether they have won or not, they have been the first teams to attract some eighty thousand fans to the stands. In Berkeley on Saturday they played a game which was fully in keeping with the traditions which have been established. The impartial observer will admit that Stanford, for the greater part of the game was the better team. It was the aggressor. It made the yardage and it supplied the thrills. Carrying the contest into the territory of the Blue and Gold it demonstrated that it had, at last, arrived at that stage of perfection which a Warner team always achieves. California may take pride in holding the Stanford attack on its two-yard line and in finishing the contest with full strength and charging toward a score. Two minutes more, perhaps thirty seconds more, and the Big Game would have been won by the Bears. If so, in justice to Stanford, it may be said it would have been won by a team which had been outplayed for three-quarters of the contest.

The nothing-to-nothing score, everything considered, was a reward of poetic justice. It makes the battle for the cherished six next year so much the more important. The thousands who saw the Big Game Saturday knew it was one in fact, recognized it as a part of a story which will be continued. They will be there next year.

South Atlantic Line is Making
Definite Progress
Riverside Enterprise

The long-expected, regular trans-atlantic air service for mail and passengers is now announced for next spring. It is to be established by the German air line, Lufthansa, and will cross the South Atlantic between Europe and South America.

It is to be more practical in its operation than some of the proposed schemes. Instead of fancy anchored airdromes dotting the Atlantic to act as service stations and emergency fields, there will be a mother steamship stationed in mid-ocean to refuel and repair seaplanes and airplanes. The planes will be shot away from the ship by catapults, as they are from the Bremen and Europa. Dirigibles will tie up to a special mooring mast on the ship. The ship will supply meteorological information and will be equipped with a radio beacon to direct planes in flight. Instead of landing on the deck of the carrier the planes will come to the sea surface on a great canvas apron which will be hauled through the water. They will then be lifted by cranes.

Interest in the plans should not obscure the fact that the Graf Zeppelin has recently completed its thirty-second ocean flight. It is expected to continue this regular travel back and forth between Europe and South America. A sister dirigible may institute a similar service to North America. If the whole service is established as planned, it will be fulfillment of something talked of since the first ocean flight.

Hats Have a Language
San Francisco Chronicle

Probably there is very little to the notion that a man's character can be told from the way he wears his hat. Pseudo-psychologists like to play with the idea, but it is rather a thin peg on which to hang a theory. In some districts in Italy's Mediterranean island of Sardinia, however, the menfolk have a way of adjusting their black woolen headpiece to indicate clearly to those who are initiated into the code just what is going on underneath.

From the angle at which he wears his home-knit headpiece a Sardinian is able to signify not only his mood, but also the salient events of his life. Thus, if a headpiece is worn at one angle, it means that he is a widower in search of a second wife. Tilted another way, it conveys the information that he is out of a job and is looking for work. A third stroke informs his neighbors that he does not wish to mingle in the gossip of the town.

To the Sardinian peasant, indeed, a headpiece speaks a myriad language. What a pity our own hats are so dumb.

THE SCREEN IN THE JUNGLE

The lions in the jungle.
The pythons in their lairs,
In recent years are wearing sneakers
And putting on big airs:
The leopard struts and simpers,
The storky crocodile
Sits on a log, his eyes agog,
And wears a lofty smile
The frantic parrot chatters
Upon the Bo tree bough;
All spend their days in loud self-praise—
They're picture actors now.

Alert and temperamental,
The hippopotami
Sit on the shore and loudly roar
Or sigh a soggy sigh.
The apes and the gorillas
From dawn to evening's close
Loil in their trees with haughty ease
And pose and pose and pose.
The eland and the nilgai
Both wear a simpering grin;
They're on their way to fame today—
They're acting for the screen.

The colling hissing cobra,
His savage molars set,
Observes, "Just wait, as sure as fate,
I'll lick that mongoose yet."
The mouse deer puffs his chest out,
And says, "I'll never stay
In this here wood, I'm just as good
As Maurice Chevalier."
No more in deep seclusion
The jungle creatures lurk;
They strut and preen, the picture screen
Has done its awful work.

Thoughts On Modern Life

WHY SCHOOL COSTS HAVE MOUNTED

In the nation-wide campaign for economy in public expenditures, the schools, as I said yesterday, are under fire.

The cold figures of cost increase of schools since, say, 1914 are, until analyzed, a bit startling. The research division of the National Education Association is my authority for the following facts. The cost of publicly supported elementary and secondary schools in 1914 was $555,077,000. By 1930 this figure had jumped to $2,320,776,000.

This means an increase in 16 years of $1,765,699,000, or 318 per cent.

A politician, with an ax as his campaign badge, can send shivers down the backs of taxpayers with these figures if he stops with the bald and brutal totals.

What accounts for this startling skyrocketing of educational costs? the pedagogues gone profligate?

Sober analysis reveals three major causes behind these mounting costs:

- (1) Depreciation of the dollar.
- (2) Longer terms and increased attendance in the schools.
- (3) Improvements in educational service.

The 1930 dollar was worth only about 63 cents of the 1914 dollar.

This means that the 1930 school bill of $2,320,776,000 would have cost only $1,460,526,117 if the dollar had not lost 37 cents of its value between 1914 and 1930.

Therefore $860,249,883 of the amount spent for elementary and secondary schools in 1930 was not increased school expenditures at all but simply the amount the school dollar had dwindled.

In the 16 years from 1914 to 1930, the number of children in the United States increased, the number enrolled in school increased, the children attended more regularly, the school terms lengthened, and the registrations in high schools jumped up, with the net result that the schools provided $6.84 per cent more days of schooling in 1930 than in 1914.

These factors account for $482,028,867 of the increase in school costs from 1914 to 1930.

This leaves $428,420,250 of the increase in school costs from 1914 to 1930 to be accounted for by added services and improved quality of service by the elementary and secondary schools.

In short, 76.02 per cent of the startling increase in school costs from 1914 to 1930 is due to the shrinkage in the value of the dollar and the sheer quantitative growth of the load the schools have had to carry, with only 23.98 per cent of the increase due to improvements in educational service.

This is important to keep in mind at a time when there are those who would have the taxpayer think that all the growth in school costs is due to educators tacking expensive frills onto the schools.

Pop was looking at the amusement page in the paper, saying, "There seems to be several good pictures in town this week, by some mistake or other. Here's this African jungle picture at the Narcesses, for instance, it's said, I always had an idea that all the fools aren't dead yet, and that proves it. How about this Hans Helmsmitt, the big German star, he's supposed to be such hot stuff it's dangerous to allow him on the celluloid, he said."

That reminds me, Willyum, Lovey Darling's new picture is at the Mawsoleum, and there was a line of people half a block long waiting to get in, ma said, and pop said, I always had an idea that all the fools aren't dead yet, and that proves it. How about this Hans Helmsmitt, the big German star, he's supposed to be such hot stuff it's dangerous to allow him on the celluloid, he said.

Now Willyum we certainly don't want to see anybody with a name like that, ma said. Hannah Hews told me that she went passed the Mawsoleum last evening and the line was all a way around the corner, so my goodness Willyum that proves where there's a line that smoke there must be some fire, she said.

No, it only proves that the longer the chimney the more the smoke, and that's how that Lovey Darling person always affected me, floozy, pop said. Here's something looks good at the New Miracle, Fredy Feezie's first comedy in 2 years, he said, and ma said, But Willyum, just think of all those crowds trying to see the Lovey Darling picture, we mite not even be able to get in.

It would be sweet to stand in line for an hour to find that out, pop said, and ma said, But Willyum if a thing is so popular it must be good, mustn't it?

Why must it? pop said. There's nothing more popular just now than colds in the head, and are they good for Feet sake? I think maybe the Fredy Feezie picture is the best bet, he said, and ma said, Now Willyum there's probably a thousand people anxiously lined up outside the Mawsoleum at this very moment, so how can you fly in the face of evidence in such a silly manner? Hurry up and let's get started, she said. Which they did.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files
14 Years Ago Today

NOVEMBER 23, 1918

At a special meeting of the Newport Beach city trustees, a contract for dredging a turning basin near the old gas plant and for a channel a mile and a quarter in length to a point at deep water beyond Bay Island, was let to the North American Dredging Co. Work was to start within ten days and be completed by March 1 and the price of $80,000 was set.

That peace might result in railroad building in Orange county was the conclusion drawn from a visit paid to this section by a party of leading officials of the Pacific Electric company. Several railroad projects came to a halt in the county when the government took over the control of railroad construction, and hope was expressed that the current official visit might have some bearing on a plan to resume consideration of the projects.

Children take themselves and their ways seriously. A lot of thought and effort go into their work and play. The results of their efforts look good to them. The lopsided box, the crooked sheet of paper, the primitive sketches are perfect in their eyes. When you point to them with the finger of scorn, when you laugh at them, you hurt the creator of these works to the heart. He put all he had into them and you poke fun at it.

All artists, all craftsmen, work to their vision. Before ever a tool touches the material the idea is complete. The worker sees only that vision. Not until his hands do he realize the work set apart between his vision and his work. Gradually as his fervor cools the realization of imperfection dawns upon him. Another vision is born and another work is started. It will be started if his spirit is not crushed. It will not be started if ridicule kills the creative spirit.

Teachers and parents often fail to get the point of view which is the child's very own. To the teacher every error stands out like a sore thumb. The crooked line, the feeble phrase, the distorted form strikes on his trained eye like the well aimed pebbles. He winces and remonstrates, he scolds, he puts a low mark in his book to record a child's failure to achieve his vision.

Parents feel the efforts of their children keenly. They struggle along and suffer with them. It is to hide their anxiety and their pain that they so often belittle a child's effort. "Isn't that simply terrible?" Of course Stanley thinks it a work of art. He's no Michael Angelo, that's plain.

Don't do that. Appreciate the work of the child's mind and hand. Go behind the clumsy effort to the vision the child cherished. So long as his work is sincere it is good. You can say so safely. So long as the child cherishes his vision and struggles to attain it he can be encouraged and praised. Screen his unseasoned spirit from biting sarcasm and the bitterness of ridicule. It is cruel to wound a child through his work. This is true of very little children as well as older ones. When a child tries to tell a story and falters, using the wrong words, failing to catch his own idea firmly enough to express it clearly, it isn't funny. It is a great disappointment to him as a bad investment is for you and you know how you welcome the sarcasm of four friends on that point. When a girl tries to express her emotions in a poem there is nothing funny about it. She has the feeling and the intent of Shelley. Her failure to reach his standard is anything but laughable, viewed from her standpoint.

It is that standpoint that is so important. Unless you can stand beside the child, unless you can see what he sees and feel as he feels, unless you can understand his impulse and appreciate his effort to create and to express you cannot help him. Then at least you need not hurt him. Laughter can be as cruel as a blow and as kind as a caress.

When you can laugh with a child you help him. A load of trouble and pain can ride off on a tide of laughter. That is another matter. Spare the child your scathing laughter and be generous with your praise and you have more chance to enjoy his childish laughter which will heal your own soul—and his.
